New Aman project is 'most ambitious to date'

Luxury hotel operator Aman will open a location outside of Shanghai in Q3 2017 that is the culmination of years of restoration and conservation efforts to preserve an ancient forest and historic Ming and Qing dynasty dwellings.

Described by the company as its "most ambitious project to date," Amanyangyun, as the retreat will be called, gets its name from the phrase 'Yang Yun,' meaning 'the nourishing of clouds,' and is described as a celebration of nature. The resort sits at the heart of an ancient forest of camphor trees – some more than 1,000 years old and 100ft tall – which have been painstakingly transported 700km (435 miles) to Shanghai from the Jiangxi Province in eastern China.

The trees were moved after the construction of a reservoir threatened their existence. Jiangxi-born entrepreneur and philanthropist

Amanyangyun sits at the heart of an ancient forest of camphor trees

Ma Dadong led a team of botanists, engineers and specialists in Chinese architecture to move both the trees and 50 historic homes from villages that were threatened with flooding.

Amanyangyun used the disassembled dynasty homes to create 26 high specification villas, which feature ornate carvings and reliefs dating back two millennia.

Designed by Kerry Hill Architects with landscapes by Dan Pearson Studio, the 26 remastered Ming and Qing Dynasty houses are set within the now-flourishing relocated camphor forest, and include 13 four-bedroom villas. The resort also includes 24 one-bedroom suites, all designed with a restful, earthy palette with interiors finished in wood, stone and bamboo to create a minimalistic, light-filled aesthetic.

The Aman Spa is devoted to holistic health, fitness and wellbeing, and includes 10 treatment rooms, a hydrotherapy suite, a private hammam, Russian banya, nail and hair salon, and reflexology area.

Chinese martial arts and Tai Chi are also offered along with yoga and Pilates, which have their own specialised studios.

Mandarin Oriental to open in Hawaii

Mandarin Oriental will open a new hotel and residences in Hawaii in 2020.

The Honolulu hotel will be the anchor of Mana'olana Place, a 36-storey tower which is being developed by Los Angeles-based Salem Partners.

It will include a Spa at Mandarin Oriental offering holistic rejuvenation and relaxation, with eight treatment rooms. Further leisure options include a comprehensive fitness centre and an outdoor swimming pool.

Designed by Colorado-based [au] workshop, the 125-room hotel will be designed to reflect Hawaiian culture.

Luxury Anantara spas open in Oman

Two opulent new Anantara resorts in Oman, Al Baleed Resort Salalah and Al Jabal Al Akhdhar are now open.

Al Baleed Resort Salalah by Anantara comprises 136 rooms including 88 villas.

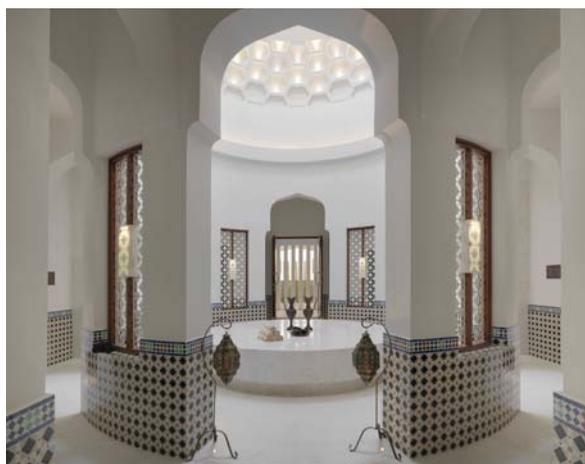

The design is inspired by the region's coastal fortresses and is surrounded by trees, gardens and water features.

Facilities include five luxury treatment rooms, the only hammam in Salalah, Razul rooms and relaxation areas.

Spa rituals inspired by the traditions of Arabia, Thailand and Asia are available, as well as holistic ayurvedic therapies and beauty treatments using indigenous ingredients.

Anantara Al Jabal Al Akhdhar is perched 2,000m (6,562ft) above sea level and is the highest five-star resort in the Middle East.

Inspired by surrounding ancient forts, mud-brick villages and castles, the design pays homage to Oman's Green Mountain. Award-winning architect Lotfi Sidirahal from Atelier PoD, used traditional building techniques and local building materials, including mountain stone.

The resort offers a variety of health, wellbeing and healing elements, while spa facilities include a private hammam suite, five luxury treatment rooms, a beauty salon, and separate male and female thermal suites.

Signature experience the Rose Rescue Ritual uses Damask roses which have been cultivated for centuries in Al Jabal Al Akhdhar and includes a rose and cucumber welcome drink. Details: http://lei.sr?a=n7Z9X_S

Spa debuts in Hamburg concert hall

A 1,300sq m (13,993sq ft) spa has opened at the new Hamburg Elbphilharmonie concert hall, a glass-covered building designed by Swiss architecture studio Herzog & de Meuron.

Elb spa features six treatment rooms on the upper floors of the Westin Hamburg, and has views of where port and city meet on the River Elbe.

German skincare brand Babor has created exclusive treatments, and a Babor retail space is also on-site.

The spa also includes a fitness space and a 20m (65ft) indoor swimming pool which is said to be the largest hotel pool in Hamburg, as well as a sauna, sanarium and steam bath.

The Hamburg Elbphilharmonie opened last month, and sits atop the original brick structure of an industrial warehouse on the city's harbourside.

In addition to the Westin Hotel and Babor spa, the structure is home to two small music

Historical Miami retreat reimaged

Legendary South Florida retreat The Surf Club has been reimaged by Four Seasons and will open early 2017.

In the 1930s, the property was a favourite destination for world leaders, artists and Hollywood film stars, and now the iconic club has been brought back to life by architect Richard Meier and Paris-based architect and designer Joseph Dirand. It has 77 guest rooms, 119 private residences and a 15,000 square foot (1,400sq m) spa.

Situated on the beachfront, the spa at the Four Seasons Hotel at the Surf Club is the first spa created by Dirand in the United States, while Don Genders of Design for Leisure provided consultation services.

With a design that focuses on maximising light and functional modernity, white, blue and green tones echo the ocean, while materials used include aluminum curtain walls, glass, white aluminum panels and stucco.

There are eight treatment rooms including two spa cabanas, a hamman, relaxation area, spa boutique, naturally-lit fitness centre and serenity lawns for oceanfront meditation, yoga and Pilates, plus four heated swimming pools.

European-trained experts will work alongside aestheticians providing advanced skincare regimes and exclusive Surf Club facials and body treatments, as well as acupuncture, aromatherapy and neuromuscular massage. The spa also includes an exclusive, special edition Gharieni MO1 table with marble base. Details: http://lei.sr?a=v5j7b_S

Mallory Court Hotel announces spa

The first spa to open in Warwickshire for more than a decade, Elan Spa at Mallory Court Hotel will open in April.

Sitting in 10 acres of grounds surrounded by woodland, the luxury, state-of-the-art spa will have a separate entrance to the main hotel and employ the latest energy efficient techniques.

It was created by Alistair Johnson at Spa Creators, who have more than 20 years experience in spa consultancy.

“During the design of the Elan Spa, the flagship spa within the Eden Hotel Collection, we worked with the architects to create an environment with a private members’ club feel,” said Johnson.

“The design incorporates flourishes including Osborne & Little wallpaper, laser-cut stonework and an impressive spa terrace with a vitality pool, log burning fire and glass-fronted sauna with a view.”

Elan Spa will feature an outdoor vitality

Chiva Som completes eco-friendly renovations

Award-winning health and wellness resort Chiva-Som has revamped all Ocean Rooms and Suites in a highly anticipated project.

Implemented under the direction of Designrealization Siam, the spacious rooms are in the North, Central and South wings.

Featuring contemporary design using Thai teak, silk and bamboo, hidden mood and sensor lighting systems have also been installed for a calming effect. An elegant colour palette enhances the wellness experience, while rich fabrics, abstract artworks and trimmings add texture.

To ensure sustainable, energy-efficient design features, the rooms have been finished with LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) standards in mind for environmental awareness.

Pullman launches wellness offer

Pullman Hotels and Resorts has designed a wellness offer for fitness and spa, embracing four themes: Balance + Energy + Detox + Age Defence.

Based on the universal pillars of wellness - Sleep, Food, Sport and Spa - the concept and core brand markers have been created following an 18 month period of research, review and expert collaboration, as well as a comprehensive five month piloting process and best practice monitoring in hotels within the Pullman network.

With a focus on the millennial frequent traveller, Pullman's aim is to address their needs as nomads who want to enjoy wellbeing experiences wherever they are.

"We believe wellbeing should be accessible to everybody, no matter how your schedule reads or what your personal wellbeing practice is," said Aldina Duarte

Luxury Clarins spa opens in Maryland

MGM National Harbor in Maryland has partnered with global skincare brand Clarins on the resort's luxurious spa.

Located in the new, US$1.4 billion (€1.3b; £1.1b) resort, which offers panoramic views of the Potomac River, the 27,000sq ft (2,508sq m), two-level spa features 11 treatment rooms, fitness centre, wet areas, couples' suites, hydrotherapy, Vichy room and a retail boutique.

The interior features clean and simple lines using white oak and monolithic materials found in the region's iconic monuments.

Quiet areas are provided for guest relaxation, while floor-to-ceiling windows provide views of the surrounding landscape.

Massages, express treatments, facials and add ons have been exclusively designed by Clarins; these will combine the "Clarins Touch" - a specialised and skillful massage with plant extracts and essential oils for a blissful sensory experience and visible results.

Treatments include the Sensational Fusion Signature Massage, a massage with choreography, stretch and percussive movement.

Cuddy announced as ISPA speaker

Social psychologist Amy Cuddy has been confirmed as the opening keynote speaker for the 2017 ISPA Conference & Expo at Mandalay Bay Resort and Casino in Las Vegas in October 2017.

The 27th annual event will kick off with Cuddy, who is also a professor at Harvard Business School and Harvard School of Public Health, New York Times author, and Young Global Leader at the World Economic Forum.

Cuddy teaches people how to become more present, influential and satisfied in their professional and personal lives. Her presentation focuses on the power of nonverbal behaviour, prejudice and stereotyping, the balance of trustworthiness and strength, and the ways in which people can affect their own thoughts, feelings, and behaviours.

“Amy Cuddy’s game-changing remarks

Author and psychologist Amy Cuddy is also a Harvard professor will impact how we embrace the act of being present and understand the power of our nonverbal behaviors within both our personal and professional lives,” said ISPA president Lynne McNeese.

Other keynote speakers are to be confirmed.

Sea-inspired spa opens in Maine

Following a major resort refurbishment, the 9,000sq ft (836sq m) Spa at Cliff House Maine is now open, offering guests luxury, comfort and state-of-the-art technology.

The 70 acre site was redesigned by New England firm, TruexCullins, following a brief to create a ‘gathering place on the cliffs’.

With creative consultation from Blu Spas Inc., the spa combines “wild and free” elements of coastal Maine, incorporating water, stone, sky and sand into its treatments.

Facilities include seven single treatment rooms, one double signature suite treatment room, five standard facial and massage rooms, state-of-the-art fitness centre and movement studio, two multi-purpose rooms with showers and a retail space.

The full-service salon includes four manicure and pedicure stations, a make-up and brow bar and a cliff-side sun lounge sanctuary.

The Spa’s wellness centre offers spa and yoga treatments and treatment therapies, as well as teas, juices, shakes and nutritional resources.

“I am excited to lead the charge in solidifying Cliff House’s position as the top destination

The Spa at Cliff House Maine offers products that fuse science and nature spa in the Northeast,” said director of spa and wellness, Dawn Page. “With a focus on regionally infused treatments along with outstanding service, I am confident the Spa will provide guests with a luxurious and unique experience.”

The spa menu pairs time-honoured techniques with local products that fuse science and nature – Red Flower is the resort’s in-room and spa amenity partner; the Spa also carries Zents, certified organic line Sciote and bio-active brand Elemental Herbology.

Vegas spa partners with Sothys

The new 4,500 sq ft (418sq m) Sothys Spa at the boutique casino resort Lucky Dragon Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas combines ancient Asian techniques with innovative, results-driven beauty treatments.

Offering panoramic views of the city, the spa is located on the second floor of the casino. Each of the four private treatment rooms (three singles and one couples room) is named after flowers, the extracts of which will be used in treatments throughout the spa.

The range of equipment includes Gharieni MO 1 Series spa tables, saddle seat stools and Alu-Vap Titan facial steamers.

Signature Sothys treatments include the cutting-edge Intensive Facial Treatments, using the latest bio-technology and featuring the Digiethetique massage method, which is inspired by Eastern and Western techniques to inspire balance and serenity, and enhance the delivery of product to the skin. All facials are designed for both male and female guests and include a hand and arm massage.

Additional facilities include a reflexology room with views of Las Vegas' mountain

Sothys Spa offers innovative, results-driven treatments

Lemi and Camylle release new aromatherapy table

Spa equipment manufacturer Lemi has collaborated with scent experts Camylle to create an aromatherapy table.

Designed to provide a ‘wow’ client experience, the Lemi Aromatherapy Table incorporates Camylle’s Perles de Parfum range.

The perfume pearls are set inside a diffuser in the table. There are five essences available, so the experience can be customised to the client.

Matteo Brusafferri, account manager at Lemi, said: “Camylle’s aroma pearls are 100 per cent natural and the diffuser balances the fragrance intensity perfectly. Lemi Aromatherapy is the healthiest way to diffuse fragrances in a treatment room.”

Comfort Zone has the Remedy with new skincare launch

Comfort Zone’s new facial skincare line is designed to reinforce and strengthen the skin to resist stresses. As well as providing immediate relief and repair for sensitive skin, the Remedy formulation is designed to fortify the skin’s immune system.

The line was developed with neuroscientist, Dr Claudia Aguirre and nutri-dermatologist, Dr Bucci. Bucci said: “Remedy helps fortify the skin microbiota, our immune-defensive cutaneous system, thanks to a prebiotic from the enzymatic synthesis of sugars.”

The range is fragrance-free and made of 98 per cent natural-origin ingredients. The formula uses Marvel of Peru flower extracts and Mexican hyssop to calm neuroinflammation, and the repairing action of marula oil.

Barbara Gavazzoli, Comfort Zone director of education, said: “Remedy is an innovative solution for chronic sensitivity.”

The Remedy line includes home care, lifestyle recommendations and a professional facial with a peel-off oil mask.

La Prairie launches skincare duo targeting wrinkles

Luxury skincare brand La Prairie has released a new 24 hour anti-ageing product to combat lines and wrinkles.

La Prairie’s scientists claim that there are three types of wrinkles: expression lines; gravity related creases and folds, and those caused by UV exposure.

The Line Interception Power Duo is designed to target all three types, and includes a day and night cream stored in a dual-barrelled, one pump bottle.

The creams work by targeting wrinkles at their inception, to prevent them from forming, and smoothing out those that have already appeared.

The Royal Crescent Spa collaborates with Elemental Herbology

The Royal Crescent Hotel & Spa in Bath has announced a new partnership with natural skincare brand Elemental Herbology.

The award-winning spa, which underwent extensive refurbishment work last summer, will offer a brand new range of innovative facial and body treatments using Elemental Herbology products.

The treatment menu features the Royal Crescent Signature Treatment which targets the face, scalp and back, and features a hot stone back massage, a scalp massage and facial.

Other treatments include the Five Element Aroma Massage, the Ho-leaf and Rosemary Muscle Melt, the Detox Booster Body Wrap and the Ultimate Vitality treatment.

Anette Hall, spa manager at The Royal Crescent, said: "To accompany the spa's new look, we wanted a fresh new selection of products and treatments."

Murad launches eye lifting and firming treatment

Clinical skincare brand Murad has launched the first product in the Murad Professional range – Eye Lift Firming Treatment.

Designed to promote younger looking eyes in an instant, the treatment is designed to deliver filler-like results and reduce the appearance of wrinkles and fine lines.

The cream infuses the delicate under-eye area with exclusive surface-filling technologies designed to lift, firm, smooth and plump the skin.

Gluten and soy free, the product is formulated with hyaluronic acid to provide intense hydration, prevent dryness and visibly reduce the appearance of wrinkles.

The treatment claims to provide immediate and lasting results by creating a smooth, plump, 'filled' appearance, that looks as if wrinkles and fine lines have been lifted with an injectable filler.

Elemis unveils new Hydra-Boost Serum

Elemis Hydra-Boost Serum claims to intensively moisturise the skin. It is formulated with ingredients designed to improve the skin's texture while protecting it from dehydration and oxidative stress.

The formula contains quinic acid to nourish dehydrated skin and organic myrtle extract, an antioxidant, to boost the skin's protective barrier.

It also contains néré seed to regulate moisture levels, hyaluronic acid to hydrate and dhatelo oil to replenish the skin.

Other key ingredients include Vitamin E, Omega 6 and 9 and essential fatty acids to lock in moisture.

Cape winelands spa gets a makeover

Overlooking the Jonkershoek Mountains and nestled against rows of vineyards, the newly refurbished Lanzerac Spa in the Cape Winelands of South Africa, is now open.

As part of the major refurbishment of the historic Lanzerac Wine Estate, the Lanzerac Spa has been reimagined in an attempt to establish itself as a leader in health and wellness on the Stellenbosch Wine Route.

Facilities now offer a retreat experience with a “luxurious feel”: windows allow light to flood in, while showing off the vista outside.

On site are six treatment rooms, four mini manicure and pedicure stations, two rasul chambers with sensation showers, an indoor heated swimming pool, sauna and steam rooms, fitness room, mist rooms and two relax areas with vineyard and mountain views.

The Vitality Corner offers homemade beverages and healthy, wholesome cuisine.

Spa treatments are results-driven, and

Spa partner Elemis has devised an exclusive signature treatment delivered by health and skincare specialists who have undergone intense training. The menu includes a range of signature journeys, NeoQi therapies, touch therapies, massages, facial therapies, body wraps, OPI manicures and pedicures, plus waxing and tinting.

Elemis is the Spa’s international product partner; the brand has also devised a signature treatment exclusively for Lanzerac.

The US revealed as #1 wellness nation

Revealing data on regional and national wellness markets has been released in the GWI’s Global Wellness Economy Monitor.

Data revealed that the global wellness industry grew by 10.6 per cent to US$3.72 trillion (€3.51tr; £2.98tr) from 2013-2015. This makes it one of the fastest-growing, most resilient markets.

Global spa facilities now generate US$77.6 billion (€73.3bn; £62.2bn) annually, with the US twice as big a spa market as its closest competitor, China.

Data also indicated that the US ranks #1 in wellness tourism, the spa industry, workplace wellness and wellness real estate.

The US gained 1,569 spas from 2013-2015, while revenues grew 7.2 per cent each year. The US now accounts for roughly one-quarter of all global spa revenues (34 per cent).

GW I chairman and CEO, Susie Ellis, forecasts five trends that will further energise the US wellness market in the coming years:

1. A surge in mental wellness programming at

Ellis has forecasted five wellness trends that will energise the US market hotels, resorts, spas, workplaces and schools.

2. Wellness beyond the Well-thy: Affordable wellness products will come to the masses.

3. Silence/Turn it Off!: Silence and total disconnection will be the approach taken by more businesses and wellness destinations.

4. Wellness IS Home and Wellness AT Home: Forecasters are seeing Americans becoming obsessed with their homes as their sanctuary.

5. US Wellness Markets will Grow: More Americans will turn to alternative approaches.
