The Football Association (FA) has announced a three-year, £150m facility strategy which aims to improve 3,000 existing natural pitches across England – as well as create 100 new artificial pitches and refurbish 150 existing all-weather sites.

The National Facilities Strategy 2013-15, published last week (26 February), outlines how the FA intends to invest around £50m each year between now and 2015.

According to the FA, the strategy – developed in consultation with the Premier League, Sport England and the Football Foundation – will ensure the game works together to improve football facilities across the country and to deliver a “coordinated approach to investment”.

Figures from the Football Foundation show that 84 per cent of people cite ‘poor facilities’ as their most pressing issue preventing them from taking part in organised football – an issue the strategy looks to correct.

Roger Burden, chair of The FA National Game Board, said: “Football has enjoyed a remarkable period of investment since the formation of the Football Foundation in 2000 with more than £780m invested into facilities across the country with thousands of clubs and teams having benefited from this investment.

“However, it is clear that there is still a huge amount of work to be done. Many of our top professional footballers started their careers playing on park pitches for local clubs within local leagues.

“Whether used by a young person taking those first steps in football or as a veteran player or as a coach, facilities have a lasting and continuing influence on our experience of the game. For this reason, investment in facilities will continue to be a key priority for The Football Association.”

The full strategy document is available on the FA website. Details: http://lei.sr?a=W1A3o

Land deal for Spurs' new stadium

Tottenham Hotspur Football Club (THFC) has continued to move closer to transforming its White Hart Lane ground, as Haringey Council has approved a land deal for the club’s new stadium.

The 56,250-capacity stadium is being built as part of the wider regeneration of Tottenham, North London, following a pledge by THFC and Haringey Council.

Under the deal the Council will acquire land for the development to remove the risk of owners of neighbouring properties seeking an injunction to prevent construction of the development. The Council will then grant a 999-year lease of the land to THFC.

The Northumberland Development Project’s (NPD) proposal for the stadium covers a 20-acre area, which includes the site of the current ground and the industrial land to the north, to create a larger area in which the new stadium can be built.

It also includes plans for a hotel, 200 new homes, shops and leisure facilities.

The design will feature using flowing lines of external cladding, an undulating roof and the club colours to create a visually striking building. Details: http://lei.sr?a=E3q4A

Group workout makes members ‘happiest’

A survey of 3,000 members of an Australian YMCA has found 85 per cent of respondents felt happy or elated after exercise, and group fitness was the activity that made people the happiest. The YMCA Victoria survey questioned people about their mood before and after exercise.

Dudley Council has shared its plans for the three attractions at Castle Hill with the public, following its submission of planning permission in January for the major redevelopment.

The £10.1m proposal for the Dudley Zoological Gardens, the Black Country Living Museum and the Dudley Canal Trust include a shared arrival point for visitors, a new entrance for each attraction and 600 new parking spaces and an upgraded car park.

During February’s half term school holidays displays and dedicated staff were on hand at each venue to explain the proposed changes.

Council cabinet member for regeneration Shaukat Ali said the redevelopment would create jobs, stimulate tourism and bring more visitors to the area.

The Imperial War Museum Duxford, Cambridgeshire, has revealed details of £15m worth of investment to improve its visitor facilities, as it prepares for the 2018 centenary of the airfield it occupies.

The museum - home to aircraft, tanks, military vehicles and boats - attracts around 400,000 visitors annually and features the Battle of Britain exhibition, the American Air Museum, and AirSpace, which tells the history of aviation in Britain and the Commonwealth.

Plans for the museum include a £2.5m revamp of the American Air Museum in 2015-16, a new hangar where visitors can see aircraft conservation in action, the transformation of the unused officers’ mess into offices and a £650,000 scheme to resurface the airfield’s runway that hosts the museum’s air shows. A spokesperson said many of the plans are long term and details are still being determined.

The British Museum will present a major exhibition on the Roman cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum this spring, sponsored by investment bank Goldman Sachs.

It is the first ever exhibition held on the two cities at the British Museum, and the first such major exhibition in London for almost 40 years. Featuring more than 250 objects, it will have a unique focus, looking at the Roman home and the people who lived in these ill-fated cities.

Scheme to boost cultural tourism

Arts Council England and VisitEngland have joined forces in order to boost cultural tourism across the country. As part of the new partnership, the two bodies have earmarked £3m worth of Arts Council Lottery funding, to be invested in supporting destinations that have “real potential to grow” and improve cultural tourism.

There will be a number of coordinated efforts to encourage the development of arts and cultural experiences and targeted holiday packages for visitors that include cultural aspects as well as more traditional accommodation and transport elements.

Describing the partnership, culture secretary Maria Miller said: “Our country is renowned around the world as a top cultural tourist destination – with iconic heritage sites, museums and theatres; the industry has a strong role to play in our economic growth.

“It makes sense that our cultural and tourist industries join forces, as in many cases they are two sides of the same coin.”

Visits to Scottish galleries increase 25%

National Galleries of Scotland (NGS) has experienced a 25 per cent increase of visitors during 2012 with three sites in Edinburgh attracting more than 1.6m people.

The highest previous figure for all three sites was recorded in 2006 with 1.56m. The results are, in part, due to the success of the opening of the refurbished Scottish National Portrait Gallery in December 2011.

Both of NGS’s other sites in Edinburgh, the Scottish National Gallery and the Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art also saw a rise of 3.9 percent and 4.5 per cent respectively on the previous year.

The Scottish National Portrait Gallery saw 327,980 visitors in 2012, which was its first full year of opening after the renovation. This is a 39 per cent increase on the last full calendar year of figures in 2008 before it closed for the refurbishment in early 2009.

Highlights of the 2012 programme included the Van Gogh to Kandinsky exhibition at the Scottish National Gallery and the Picasso & Modern Britain show at the Scottish National Gallery of Modern Art.

John Leighton, director-general of NGS said: “Art and culture are becoming increasingly important for attracting visitors to Scotland.”

The Big Conversation

n my first comment piece for this year I talked about the need for our industry to join together to invest in our best resource – our young people. Youth employment is one of the BHA’s central campaign areas and our research shows that the industry has the potential to create over 200,000 jobs in the UK by 2015.

This is why I want to share some news about what The Big Conversation – an events-led initiative between senior leaders and young people. The concept was started by Business in the Community – one of the Prince of Wales’s charities and it’s aimed at promoting talent and skills leadership across every industry sector and every region of the UK. Together with the BHA, Patrick Dempsey, managing director of Whitbread’s hotels and restaurants, is taking this initiative to our own industry and helping to lead the Big Conversation for hospitality jobs.

Patrick and I are challenging hospitality businesses to pledge to employ more young people aged between 18-24 years old. The Big Conversation for Hospitality Jobs provides a unique forum for industry leaders to meet directly with a group of young people to talk about tackling youth unemployment, the importance of work experience and apprenticeships.

Coupled with the Big Conversation, the recently signed agreement between the BHA, the Minister of State for Employment and the Department of Work & Pensions to ‘better serve the needs of the hospitality sector while giving those people who wish to pursue a career in hospitality a recognized route into work’ will be an important step in ensuring the industry receives the support needed from government to realise its full job creating potential.

By joining together, we can pledge thousands of new jobs for young people. The first of our Big Conversations is being held in London on 8th February. There are events being planned all around the UK between now and June. If your business can find just one or more work experience places, internships, apprenticeships or a new job for someone under the age of 25, please join the campaign and let us know: pr@bha.org.uk

HOTELS

Sluggish start to 2013...

Poor weather and the timing of the New Year bank holiday have contributed to a sluggish January for the UK’s hotels.

Preliminary figures reveal room yields in London fell by 5.6 per cent to £76.31, compared with £80.87 in January 2012. Occupancy also dropped from 72.0 per cent to 67.8 per cent.

In this period room rates only rose £112.27 to £112.49.

Outside the capital a 1.7 per cent drop in occupancy from 57.1 per cent to 56.2 per cent just outweighed a 1.7 per cent increase in room rate from £52.44 to £53.33.

Room yields declined only slightly from £29.99 a year ago to £29.96.

Partner for Hotel Consultancy Services at PKF, Robert Barnard, said: “The poor weather that much of the country experienced in January appears to have hit occupancy, and there’s very little that operators can do in the circumstances.

“The timing of the New Year bank holiday didn’t help either, and effectively meant that the corporate market didn’t restart until the second week of January.”

...but UK still most ‘liquid hotel market’ in Europe

The UK remains the most liquid hotel investment market in Western Europe, according to property adviser BNP Paribas Real Estate.

Looking ahead, Paribas predicts 2013 to see a similar reduction in overall volume. In a declining market, the UK continued to dominate the hotel investment market at 41 per cent of overall investment.

US Open and Olympic tennis champion Andy Murray has bought Cromlix House Hotel, near Dunblane, with plans to transform the Victorian mansion into a 15-room five star destination.

The hotel, which sits on 50-acres of woodland and garden, is scheduled to reopen next spring, in time for the 2014 Ryder Cup which is being staged a short drive away at Gleneagles.

Murray said: “By re-establishing Cromlix as a leading luxury hotel at the heart of the Dunblane community we will be able to attract new visitors to the area, create a number of new jobs and focus on supporting other businesses. I’m pleased to give something back to the community I grew up in.”

TOURISM

Tourists spend £4.5bn on retail

Britain has been named as one of the most sought after destinations for international shoppers, with figures showing last year’s 18m visitors spent £4.5bn on retail therapy during their stay.

The majority of the shopping spend was on clothes with £2.3bn spent on fashion, while souvenirs, gifts and household goods accounted for around £1.6bn.

Australians were the most likely to go shopping during their visit, while the biggest spenders were from the Gulf States (£4.42 per head), Nigeria (£432) and China (£405).

Nearly 70 per cent of all female visitors and 50 per cent of inbound male tourists made sure they included shopping on their itinerary during a trip to the UK.

Britain ranked favourably against France and on par with Italy for value for money.

Chief executive of VisitBritain Sandie Dawe said: “It’s not just purchasing designer goods at Harrods, or rubbing shoulders with the rich and famous on Chelsea's King's Road that lure visitors to the UK – a huge number also make the trip to seek out bargains.”

A survey of respondents from 19 countries revealed a fifth rated shopping at Harrods as one of their top three ‘only in Britain’ dream holiday activities. Details: http://lei.sr?la=28Y4b

Seaside towns get £16m cash boost

Seaside towns around the UK are to receive a cash boost for projects that bring new leisure and business opportunities to coastal communities.

Twenty seaside projects have been given grants of up to £2.6m each from the Costal Communities Fund. The money will support projects such as rejuvenating old heritage and leisure facilities, schemes to provide skills training and advice to help businesses embrace digital technology. The £16m fund is raised from the Crown Estate’s marine assets and reinvested in coastal areas. Communities secretary Eric Pickles said: “It’s a missed opportunity if we don’t tap into the huge potential our coastal towns have to welcome new industries and to diversify their economies so they can become year-round success stories.

“We’ve seen enormous enthusiasm for this government fund and had to make some difficult choices but the projects we’ve chosen will create thousands of jobs and help many start-up businesses.”

Projects that will receive the funding include £500,000 for the Morecambe Bay Partnership, Cumbria County Council to enhancing the area as a tourism destination.

Cable and Wireless Porthcurno and Collections Trust, Cornwall will receive £149,587 to develop the Porthcurno Telegraph Museum to include a learning centre and new galleries. Details: http://lei.sr?la=M1F1O

Nottingham applies to demolish Turkish baths

Nottingham City Council has granted permission for the demolition of the city’s former Turkish Baths, built in 1928, to make way for a new link road.

The application for demolition has now been referred to the secretary of state for a decision, with work to start in summer if it is given the go ahead. The baths are currently vacant but had been part of the Victoria Leisure Centre before its £9m refurbishment completed in 2012 as part of a wider investment in local facilities.

Berwick Rangers FC consider building new stadium

Scottish Football League team Berwick Rangers FC has commissioned a feasibility study into building a new stadium, which would see the club move from its existing venue in Northumberland, located by the English-Scottish border.

The club is said to be negotiating the possible purchase of land nearby, also in Tweedmouth, which architecture and design firm Frank Whittle Partnership (FWP) has been commissioned to complete a stadium feasibility study for. Details: http://lei.sr?a=BoEei

Tonbridge project moves forward

Tonbridge is one step closer to getting a new leisure and community centre, shops and a cinema for its town centre, with the council signing a legal agreement with Sainsbury’s for the redevelopment.

The purpose of the regeneration is to stimulate the town’s economic vitality, attracting new retailers to the area and shoppers back to the city centre, creating new jobs in the process. Tonbridge & Malling Borough Council and Sainsbury’s will develop and submit detailed designs by summer.

The council is currently undertaking a survey of leisure activities available in the town to determine what else the town needs, with core elements in the new centre expected to include gym and fitness facilities and a multi-use space for dance, meetings and events.

Pending planning approval construction will begin on the leisure centre at the end of the year and take about 18 months to complete.

The council said the location of the leisure and community centre will be in close proximity to the town centre and transport links.

Loudoun’s £300m conversion to golf resort

Plans have been unveiled to turn the former Loudoun Castle theme park site in East Ayrshire, Scotland, into an environmentally-friendly, £300m golf resort.

Project management company Vicon UK has joined forces with investor FML to launch the ambitious master-plan, which proposes a world class championship standard 18-hole golf course, club house and educational golf academy as well as a new whisky distillery, homes, retail and a food and drink ‘centre of excellence’ for the site. The 19th-century Loudon Castle itself is set to be redeveloped as a luxury hotel.

Kilmarnock-based Thomson Architects have been appointed to create the blueprint for the site. It is anticipated the development will be powered by clean renewable energy. As part of the planning application, a renewable energy plant is proposed for the site, which will take the form of a district heating system incorporating PV solar systems and, potentially, a biomass plant.

Loudoun Castle theme park, which first opened in 1995, closed its doors at the end of the summer season in 2010.

Safety qualification for wellness industry

Sector skills body Habia has developed a new qualification in health and safety to help spa operators and salon owners, managers and industry professionals stay on top of UK and EU law. The Level 2 Award in Health and Safety for the Salon Environment, developed in partnership with Awarding Organisation VTCT, is aimed at anyone working in a spa or salon environment.

The qualification can be delivered in just one day and three courses have so far been arranged for April, May and June at Habia’s offices in Yorkshire.

Habia plans to take it on the road with courses across the UK by offering employers – or groups of employers – who can gather at least 12 delegates the chance to have Habia deliver the qualification on their own premises. Habia is the government approved standards setting body for spa, hair, beauty and nails, and creates the standards that form the basis of all qualifications.

ASA to improve management software

Representatives from five leisure organisations have met with the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA) and technology firm Cap2 as part of plans to improve the ASA approved learn to swim programme management software, CoursePro.

CoursePro, developed by Cap2, is a software programme designed initially for swimming pool management, enabling pool-side administration using an iPod as well as course co-ordination, reporting and parental interaction via a ‘HomePortal’.

Each of the five operators who took part in the consultation – DC Leisure, SLM, Leisure Connection, Fusion Lifestyle and the London Borough of Barking and Dagenham – use the software. Ross McCaw, founder of Cap2 Solutions, said: "It was a really useful think tank session. The operators are all using CoursePro, through a range of providers, and so were able to give valuable feedback."

“We want to work on all of their suggestions, but have taken the top 10 for now, for further investigation and progression," added McCaw. Details: http://lei.sr?a=x0F4Y

The Big Conversation

The Big Hospitality Conversation is a joint initiative between Springboard, The Prince of Wales’s Charity Business in the Community and the British Hospitality Association (BHA). It brings together influential industry leaders from the top hospitality businesses with young people to stimulate an important dialogue on employability skills, work experience and apprenticeships. The purpose is to understand the business case for each as well as the drivers for young people; to identify opportunities and barriers; to make introductions to the workplace meaningful, relevant and inspiring; and, most importantly, to explore prospects for employment.

So why is this important? Youth unemployment is at a high level, yet there is a wealth of talent and potential waiting to be tapped; the UK Government is looking to industry to drive economic recovery and the hospitality industry is in a position to be a key player to stimulate growth. Work experience, apprenticeships and initiatives to support unemployed people into jobs are critical to cementing a talent pipeline, but all three are often misunderstood or underrated. The Big Conversation is a tried and tested model and is an opportunity for industry leaders and young people to break down barriers and help supply to meet demand.

Springboard’s latest research Young People’s Perceptions to Hospitality as a Career Choice and the Factors Affecting Career Choice showed that work experience remained the single most important factor influencing career choice – but that not all work experience was good.

It is vital that the industry offers more and better quality work experience opportunities to convert this potential. This is why Springboard developed the INSPIRE Quality Standard to help businesses create and deliver the best work experiences which nurture young people into employment.

The Big Conversation road shows are taking place across the country. Find out more at www.springboarduk.net

Eventbrite partners with Facebook

Ticketing website Eventbrite has announced it has partnered with Facebook following the social network’s introduction of a “Buy Tickets” button on its event pages.

Previously event organisers creating a Facebook event could only provide a URL to their preferred ticketing provider, but the new button provides this link instead, giving it more prominence on the event page.

The button does not yet allow transactions to happen direct through the event page but takes users to a third party website.

Eventbrite stated via its blog it has long regarded Facebook as a powerful way for event organisers to promote their events and sell a large number of tickets.

Event organisers can create a Facebook event themselves and direct users to Eventbrite to purchase tickets, or create an event via the “Buy Tickets” button in a one-click process.

The ticket-purchasing feature is currently only available to events that have been created by a Facebook Page rather than by individual users. Details: http://lei.sr?a=L7Q80
