Public Health England CEO Duncan Selbie has called on the NHS to prioritise the prevention of obesity, cardiovascular disease and smoking in its new long-term plan.

On obesity, Selbie said the NHS should build upon the current childhood obesity plan and expand it to target adult obesity too.

“The childhood obesity plan has a commitment to halve the rate of childhood obesity by 2030 – and the NHS long-term plan should include targets on adult obesity,” Selbie said, adding that physical activity could play a major role in any prevention plan.

“One of the ways to achieve this is by increasing and improving the way weight management support is provided,” he said.

“Making it routine for people to have their body mass index (BMI) measured and recorded would provide an opportunity for healthcare professionals to give advice and promote national guidance on physical activity.”

As well as obesity, Selbie wants to see more emphasis on preventing diabetes and tackling smoking.

“The NHS’ long-term plan should also renew our commitment to the Diabetes Prevention Programme,” Selbie added.

Rugby league star Jamie Peacock partners with hero to tackle workplace wellbeing issues

Leeds Rhinos and England star Jamie Peacock, considered one of the best rugby league players of his generation, has partnered with corporate wellbeing specialist Hero to tackle workplace health and fitness. Peacock will implement his own “no white flag” mentoring programme as part of hero’s own “mindset” offering – a programme of ongoing education and support delivered to partners and clients. The education and seminar programme offered by hero is designed to support businesses with all aspects of wellbeing, including mental resilience, sleep and nutrition.

“Jamie’s achievements in captaining our national team, as well as the honours he’s achieved off the pitch are incredible,” said Joe Gaunt, Hero’s CEO and founder. “Mindset is central to creating a positive change in behaviour and Jamie can offer a unique view on this based on his successful career and his achievements.”

Peacock added: “The product we’ve developed is remarkable and is a complete game changer for the world of corporate wellness and wellbeing. “Investing in the health and wellbeing of your employees makes sense both morally and financially.”

Boo Cycle appoints David Lloyd as chair to help brand achieve ‘rapid growth’

Boutique fitness operator Boom Cycle has named industry veteran David Lloyd as its non-executive chair.

According to Boom co-founder Hilary Rowland, Lloyd – who founded David Lloyd Leisure in 1982 and subsequently floated it on the stock market – will help guide the indoor cycling brand’s “rapid expansion” and strategic development.

“We’re thrilled that David is joining us,” she said. “It means we can grow even faster and deliver our unique experience to more riders.”

Launched in London in 2011 by Rowland and her husband Robert, Boom Cycle has secured the backing of a number of investors – including Pembroke VCT, Nectar Capital, Andurand Capital, and Prism Finance.

Focusing on indoor cycling which “engages riders mentally as well as physically” through personalised coaching, Boom currently operates four locations in London – in Holborn, Hammersmith, Monument and Battersea Power Station – and will launch its next site in early 2019.

It is planning to expand outside the capital “in the coming years”.

“We’re proud of what we have accomplished at Boom Cycle, and delighted that David is joining as chair to add his renowned experience and network to our cause,” said co-founder Robert Rowland. David Lloyd added: “The team at Boom has clearly defined the indoor cycle space in the UK, and have developed a compelling, differentiated customer proposition.”

David Beckham reveals name of MLS team as Inter Miami

The Miami MLS Ownership Group, led by former England captain David Beckham, has revealed that the franchise team will be called Club Internacional de Futbol Miami – or Inter Miami for short.

According to Beckham, the name celebrates Miami and represents the city’s “international, diverse, inclusive, creative and ambitious spirit”.

“We’re taking another important step in establishing our Club and today marks an important moment in the history of Club Internacional de Futbol Miami,” said Beckham, the team’s majority owner and president of football operations. “Club Internacional de Futbol Miami is a name that celebrates the incredible energy of one of the most exciting cities in the world – one that is diverse, passionate and ambitious. A city that has welcomed me and so many others, so warmly.

“Our club will be a home for all – no matter where you are from or how you got here. This is just the beginning of our journey as we continue to build towards our first game in 2020.”

Beckham officially launched his MLS venture in Miami on 29 January this year, following nearly five years of negotiations. He exercised an option in his contract with former side LA Galaxy to buy an MLS franchise in 2014.
Myzone adds Tamara Bailey to senior team

Fitness tech company Myzone has appointed retention specialist Tamara Bailey as key account manager.

Bailey joins the firm with more than 20 years’ experience in the sector and joins from The Retention People (TRP).

“Tamara has worked as a senior member of the team at TRP, growing a customer engagement software business, centred around creating happy, loyal members for clubs,” said Jonathan Monks, Myzone’s director of Europe, Middle East and Africa.

“We’re super excited to have Tamara on our side, and learn from her wealth of experience around customer engagement and retention.”

In her new role, she will be tasked with managing Myzone’s portfolio of key accounts – and help evolve the tech company’s services.

Bailey added: “The fitness industry has changed so much over recent years, the challenge to create exceptional experiences to encourage more people to be active and enjoy exercise has never been greater. Myzone provides fantastic solutions to support this for individual users and operators.”

Ben Hilton and Roland Sims appointed trustees at non-profit Circadian Trust

Ben Hilton, CEO of the Dame Kelly Holmes Trust (DKHT), has been appointed a trustee at Circadian Trust, the not-for-profit organisation which operates six lifestyle and sports centres across South Gloucestershire.

Hilton has spent the past 10 years working in the third sector, having previously held the role of national operations development manager for charity Business in the Community.

He will be joined on the board of trustees by Roland Sims, a former area manager at Active Lifestyle Centres for Circadian Trust. Sims brings more than 30 years of leisure management experience to the trust.

“At the Trust we strive to inspire a wide range of communities in leading active and healthy lifestyles, both through sport and their approach to general fitness and wellbeing,” said Ross Parker, chair of the Board of Trustees.

“As we continue to work towards this goal, it’s fantastic to welcome new Trustees who bring a wealth of new experiences and ideas to the board.”

“The recent refurbishments at our Longwell Green and Yate centres create a great opportunity to engage with harder to reach communities and encourage them to get involved with the new facilities we have to offer.”

Circadian Trust operates centres in Bradley Stoke, Downend, Kingswood, Longwell Green and Thornbury.
Women in Football appoints industry veteran Jane Purdon as its first CEO

Women in Football (WiF) has named Jane Purdon as its first ever chief executive.

Purdon will officially take up her role at the head of WiF – a network of professional women working in and around the football industry – on 1 December.

Purdon, a trained lawyer, is a sports industry veteran and has a track record of working at the highest level of football and sport.

She was most recently head of governance and leadership at UK Sport and prior to that director of governance at the Premier League. She also had a stint as club secretary at Sunderland AFC.

“The appointment of Jane as the first CEO of WiF will be invaluable at this critical time of exponential growth in women’s football and given the momentum of the reforms with respect to gender inclusion in football globally,” said Ebru Köksal, chair of WiF.

Commenting on her new role, Purdon said: “Women in Football is an organisation I have known and worked with for many years, and one I have huge respect for.

“It has achieved much in its first 10 years to champion and support women working in the game, and I’m honoured to be joining it.”

Jetts Fitness targets further UK growth

Jetts Fitness has opened a club in Skipton, Yorkshire, making it the fifth location the Australian gym chain has launched in the 12 months since entering the UK market in September 2017.

The Skipton site – which achieved record pre-sales for the chain in the UK – joins existing Jetts gyms in Erdington, Stockport, Wigan and Portsmouth. The launch is part of a pipeline of openings which will see two more locations launch this year.

Founded in 2007 by husband and wife team Brendon and Cristy Levenson, Jetts Fitness has established itself in the Australian market by expanding rapidly through a franchise model and now has more than 210 sites in Australia.

Jetts focuses on a ‘workout on your terms’ philosophy, which offers flexible memberships with 24/7 access, no lock-in contracts and access to all Jetts gyms worldwide.

It has also created a unique class format for the UK market – a 30-minute class programme called j30 – which looks to capitalise on the popularity of small group training.

“In just over 12 months, we will have launched seven clubs into what is a fiercely competitive market,” said Jetts Fitness UK director James Garner.

’Luxury rowing studio’ Engine Room opens in London

A boutique indoor rowing and personal training studio – described as the first of its kind in the UK – has opened in a Grade II-listed, converted church in the affluent Marylebone area of London this month.

The Engine Room will feature Technogym’s new Skillrow rowers and will have a focus on providing technique-driven indoor rowing sessions in a luxury setting. All guests will be required to undertake a ‘Rowing 101’ induction prior to their participation in any class offering.

According to founder and owner Chris Heron, the inductions will enhance the consumer experience, ensuring every member is made aware of rowing techniques and the “benefits the class will offer them in return”.

The Engine Room will also offer body fat testing and a range of metrics during classes to motivate and provide members with accurate and data-backed results.

Social fitness ‘key to boosting revenue’ - Mindbody report

Encouraging members to take part in group exercise and make friends at the gym could be key to health clubs boosting their revenue, according to new research by Mindbody.

Data gathered by the management software company shows that 50 per cent of people who exercise regularly (at least once per week) are more motivated when they have a workout ‘buddy’, while 15 per cent of people said it was the social element of exercise that motivated them the most.

Mindbody’s Insights Report also found that more than half (58.9 per cent) of people look for a place to work out did so by recommendation of a friend.

The findings are supported by a separate study into the social benefits, which highlighted how visiting the gym for the purpose of meeting people can quickly become part of a social routine.

PTs report rise in people seeking mental health help

There has been an increase in the number of people seeking mental health advice and support from personal trainers.

According to a survey conducted by fitness training company The Training Room, 55 per cent of PTs reported they more clients now approach them with mental health concerns and worries, which they say are largely caused by work-related stress and financial concerns.

The survey, carried out among The Training Room graduates, showed that PTs are also having to work longer hours and spend more time counselling clients.

Other findings include that a vast majority of PTs (78 per cent) currently spend up to five hours a week responding to clients’ messages and giving them help and advice outside of their paid for one to one sessions.

“The fitness industry is becoming much more diverse, with a strong shift towards overall wellness,” said Greg Slade, head of health and fitness at The Training Room.

‘Elevate physical activity to heart of policy’

Ukactive chair Tanni Grey-Thompson has made a passionate call for the government to finally recognise the importance of physical activity and to include it at the “heart” of the UK’s political debate.

Speaking at the ukactive Summit in London on 12 September, Grey-Thompson said she was frustrated at the government’s inability to include physical activity in policy making, despite all the evidence showing that exercise is a “magic pill” which could “save the NHS”.

“Simon Stevens – chief executive of the NHS – stood on this very stage two years ago and said physical activity and exercise could prevent 30 per cent of cases of dementia, 30 per cent of osteoporosis, radically reduce the number of many cancers and eliminate type 2 diabetes,” she said.

“Yet, the pace of change we seek from government for our sector remains glacial and the comprehensive partnership we seek with government remains down the track.”

“I understand politics is about priorities, but how many bigger priorities can there be than the health of our nation?”

She added that the issue isn’t aided by the chaos caused by Brexit, which has seemingly paralysed government on all other topics.

Ten Health opens Mayfair studio

Independently-owned boutique fitness operator Ten Health and Fitness has reopened its Mayfair studio following a comprehensive refurbishment.

Designed by founder Joanne Mathews and creative director Justin Rogers, the new space has been made to embody “all of the luxury of Mayfair” by resembling a “swish hotel”, combining marble, light-coloured parquet flooring and glossy black detailing.

According to Rogers, the new design will better reflect its location.

“At Ten, the brand is strong enough for us to ring the changes a bit with our studios,” he said. “So rather than a cookie-cutter approach, we’re increasingly keen on celebrating the differences between them, whether that’s in the feel of the area or the architecture of the building.”

STADIUMS

York stadium set for 2019 opening

The York Community Stadium, the future home of York City Football Club and York City Knights Rugby League Club, is set to open in time for the 2019-20 Football League season.

Currently under construction in Huntington, York, the venue will have a capacity of 8,000 and will be part of a mixed-use development.

As well as the stadium, the project will feature a Cineworld cinema complex – with IMAX screen – five restaurants and a leisure centre and community hub managed by GLL, with swimming pool, gym, dance studio, sports hall and indoor and outdoor climbing facilities. There will also be three retail units and an NHS outpatient service and library.

Work on the stadium – led by Buckingham Group Contracting – has now reached the stage where steelwork for the West Stand has commenced and the cladding is being added to the leisure centre.

Jon Flatman, owner of the York City Knights, hopes that the stadium will host games during the 2021 Rugby League World Cup when it is staged in England.

York City FC’s current home, the Bootham Crescent Stadium, has been home to the club since 1932.

Debbie Jevans named EFL’s first female chair

Debbie Jevans, one of the main architects of London 2012, has been named interim chair of the English Football League (EFL).

Jevans has taken up the role following the surprise resignation of Ian Lenagan, who has stepped down after only two years as chair.

The appointment means that Jevans becomes the first woman to lead the EFL. She has been tasked to lead the process of appointing a new, permanent chair.

It is the latest “first” achieved by Jevans during her 30-year career in sports management and administration.

LARGE SCALE PROJECTS

£200m sport and wellness village planned for Wales

The project will feature sports facilities, a wellness hotel and a wellbeing centre.

The project is expected to open by 2023.

Work could soon begin on what has been described as one of the first developments of its kind in the world. The £200m Llanelli Wellness and Life Science Village, planned for the Carmarthenshire coast, is set to include sports facilities, a wellness hotel, sports and wellbeing centre, wellness spa and primary care centre.

An outline planning application for the project will be assessed by mid-November, with preparatory works being earmarked for coming months.

The project’s first phase, due to open in 2021, will feature a leisure centre as part of the Wellness Hub. There will also be a Community Health Hub, housing an Institute of Life Sciences. The entire project is expected to be completed in 2023.

Carmarthenshire Council is leading the project, with Swansea University and private sector partner Sterling Health as partners.

MENTAL HEALTH

21,000 coaches to get ‘mental health aware’ training

The Sport for Development Coalition (SDC) has launched a campaign to train 21,000 UK sports coaches to be ‘mental health aware’ by 2021.

Called #21by21, the initiative looks to support the mental health and wellbeing of the UK’s most disadvantaged and vulnerable people, by bringing together representatives from across the sporting and business sectors.

Those involved in the project include StreetGames, UK Coaching, mental health charity Mind, the Dame Kelly Holmes Trust and the Premier League. The campaign’s target is “to ensure sports coaches have the three core skills needed to protect the people they work with; first aid, safeguarding and mental health awareness”.

Sarah Mortiboys, manager at SDC, said: “We believe that mental health awareness should be recognised as a core competency, alongside physical first aid and safeguarding, for coaches and volunteers in sport.”

Record number of Scottish kids get active

The number of schoolchildren taking part in SportScotland’s Active Schools project has increased 5 per cent, hitting an all-time high.

The Active Schools initiative, organised by the national sports agency, is designed to help schools and sports clubs offer young people a wider and improved range of sports opportunities.

In the past year, the number of sessions delivered through Active Schools increased by 6 per cent to more than 7 million.

The total number of children taking part in the sessions increased by 5 per cent to a record-breaking 309,000.

SportScotland works in partnership with all of Scotland’s 32 local authorities to invest in and support the Active Schools network.

The network has grown to consist of more than 400 managers and coordinators who develop and support the delivery of sporting opportunities for young people.

“Active Schools aims to provide more and higher quality opportunities for children to take part in sport and physical activity before school, during lunchtime and after school,” a spokesperson said.

“During the 2017-18 academic year, more than 22,500 deliverers – 88 per cent of whom are volunteers – provided 389,000 Activity Sessions.”

‘Fully inclusive’ sports centre opens at Berkshire school

An inclusive multi-sports centre has opened at the St Andrew’s School in Pangbourne, Berkshire.

Developed in consultation with disability sports charity SportsAble, the £4m facility has been designed to meet disability access regulations and is able to host competition standard wheelchair basketball and boccia.

The centre will be used by a number of local community groups and is open to the general public, as well as serving St Andrew’s 300 students during school hours. Designed by Mancon Project Management and developed by Amiri Construction, facilities at the centre include a large sports hall measuring 36mx18m; a 25m four-lane swimming pool with hoist and ambulant disabled stairs and wet and dry changing areas.

“Ensuring full accessibility was core to this development,” said Jon Bartlett, headmaster of St Andrew’s School.

With an inactivity crisis and an aging population our physical activity practitioners must be able to work with increasing numbers of people living with one or more long term health conditions.

Sport and physical activity employers asked CIMSPA to engage with the health sector to examine how both sectors can work together to develop a workforce with the skills to address this societal issue.

Supported by partners from active health associates, CIMSPA has spent the last 18 months developing and consulting on an occupational map, which outlines the workforce needed to improve the physical activity habits of those with long term health conditions. We have also developed a professional standard for practitioners detailing the knowledge, skills and behaviours they will need to do this.

Active partnerships
The engagement in the consultation process has been astounding. In May, health sector professionals including those from Public Health England, Department of Health, Richmond Group of Charities, Chartered Society of Physiotherapy, Royal College of General Practitioners, Sport England, Royal College of Physicians, National Centre for Sport and Exercise Medicine, British Association for Sport and Exercise Medicine and the British Association of Sport and Exercise Science joined CIMSPA in a workshop to help shape the occupational map and professional standard.

In August, we issued the draft occupational map and standard for wider consultation to both the sport and physical activity and health sectors, running three virtual listening meetings where over 50 organisations were represented. The consultation closed in September and we are now reviewing the hundreds of pieces of feedback received from all partners before we outline the timeline for the publication of the standard.

The way ahead
Our workforce needs to adapt to meet the needs of an inactive and ageing nation. This new professional standard will ensure that sport and physical activity practitioners are equipped to work with their health sector colleagues to play a critical role in supporting long term behavioural change in a society where people are living longer but not in good health.

REDEVELOPMENT

Clifford Spa to undergo £2m revamp

Independently-owned Clifford Health Club and Spa in Nottingham will undergo a two-year, £2m expansion and redevelopment.

The development will see the addition of a number of facilities.

At the large Fire & Ice Spa, a new 1,700sq ft dry relaxation area will house a coffee and juice bar with 15 tiled heated loungers and 15 traditional loungers. A new Herbal Infusion steamroom and a Hot Box will also be added.

At the day spa area, six double treatment rooms will be built and the health café will double in size. There will also be a new relaxing and waiting area.

The roof space of the building will also be utilised, adding 8,000sq feet of floor space.

The new areas and facilities will be added in stages, with the first phase – which includes works at the Fire & Ice Spa – launching in January 2019.

The final stage, a 4,000sq ft expansion of the spa, is expected to be completed in July 2020.

“We will continue our ambitious and bold expansion plan and after prolonged negotiations we have managed to secure additional areas for us to expand in,” said Mark Clifford, owner of the club.

HOTEL SPAS

Carden Park Hotel reveals first look at new £10m spa

Carden Park Hotel, in Cheshire, UK, has released the first images of its new £10m spa. The project, which broke ground in June this year, has already reached its first major milestone, the completion of the site preparation, meaning that construction can begin.

The spa – which is being created by spa consultant Nicki Kurran, alongside HB Architects, Pave Always Building Contractors and Barr & Wray Interior Design – is expected to open next year.

It will feature a wide variety of indoor and outdoor facilities, including a vitality pool, ice fountain, snow shower, experience showers, foot baths and heated loungers.

The outdoor-spa garden will also feature a hydrotherapy pool, outdoor sauna, hot tubs and private ‘secret garden’.

“We’re very excited to see the spa evolve every day,” said Carden Park’s general manager Hamish Ferguson.

GNH merges with Hotel Partnership

Great National Hotels and Resorts has completed the merger with The Hotel Partnership for an undisclosed sum.

The merger brings the group to a combined total of 135 hotels, making it one of the largest independent hotel services companies in Europe with 8,150 bedrooms.

Founded in 2010, Great National currently represents 64 mainly 3-star deluxe and 4-star independent hotels and resorts throughout Ireland and the UK.

The group also co-owns several of these hotels, which are operated under management contracts.

The Hotel Partnership, established in 2001, trades under the brand ‘Classic British Hotels’ and comprises a collection of 71 four and five-star properties throughout the UK.

The group will continue to operate under the two independent brands, but will combine the technology, marketing and distribution services.

“Our companies specialise in tapping latent growth and accelerating revenues for independent hotels across a range of complementing market sectors, from leisure to corporate,” said David Byrne, Great National CEO and co-founder.

BHG acquires The Chichester hotel

Bright Hospitality Group (BHG) has acquired the boutique The Chichester Hotel in Wickford, Essex, as part of its nationwide expansion strategy.

Facilities at the historic 36-bedroom hotel – which takes its name from Sir John de Chichester, who was the original occupant of Chichester Hall, a 13th century moated farmhouse – include a bar, restaurant and three event spaces.

Family-owned BHG bought its first hotel in 2005 and has since specialised in the UK’s boutique sector.

The addition of the Chichester Hotel takes its portfolio to 12 properties.

“The property is a great strategic fit to our expanding portfolio of regional hotels,” said Imran Zaman, director at BHG.

“The Chichester is an established business and we intend to build on its success, working hard with the passionate team we have on site and investing in some areas of the property.”

UKinbound appoints Joss Croft as CEO

UKinbound has named Joss Croft as its CEO, replacing Deirdre Wells, who stepped down from the role last month.

Croft brings with him more than 25 years of senior leadership experience, spanning positions at the Department for International Trade (DIT) and VisitBritain.

He is currently director of network communications at the DIT, having been managing director of marketing at DIT and its predecessor, UK Trade and Investment.

Prior to his stint at DIT, Croft spent 16 years at VisitBritain, holding a number of senior positions, including head of business visits and events and marketing director. At VisitBritain, he was instrumental in implementing the global GREAT Britain campaign and was also credited for forging strong working relationships with a variety of UK institutions and international destinations.

During his early career, Croft also held posts at the London Tourist Board and Convention Bureau (now London and Partners), Parc du Futuroscope and Disneyland Paris Resort.

“This is a fantastic opportunity to represent UKinbound at this critical time for Britain’s international tourism industry,” Croft said.

Freedom of movement to lead agenda at ETOA summit

This year’s European Tourism Summit, which is being held in Lucerne next month, will focus on the threats on freedom of movement and other key issues facing the European tourism sector.

Organised by the European Tourism Association (ETOA), the event will see delegates take part in policy sessions featuring a number of high-profile speakers – including MEPs, representatives from intergovernmental organisations and industry pioneers.

Sessions will include talks on tourism ‘megatrends’, destination management strategy and the impact of Brexit.

“Free movement of visitors into Europe and skilled workers within Europe are critical issues for ETOA members,” said Tom Jenkins, CEO of ETOA. “If policy makers in Brussels and London are serious about freedom for tourists and workers to travel post-Brexit, the focus needs to be on ease of market access.”

Second phase completed at Tower Bridge

A new exhibition has opened at London’s iconic Tower Bridge, marking the second phase of the redevelopment of the British landmark.

Housed inside the North and South Towers that link the bridge’s high-level walkways above the River Thames, the new addition is part of a long-term strategy to develop and improve Tower Bridge’s interpretation, with a renewed focus on the social history of the bridge.

It follows the initial redevelopment of the tower’s engine rooms and installation of commemorative bronze plaques into the southeast pavement in spring 2017.

In the North Tower, brand new displays alongside original objects from the history of the bridge will showcase its planning, design and construction, while displays in the South Tower will explore its operation and maintenance up to the present day.

Developed in conjunction with Leach Studio, the displays will give visitors the opportunity to “meet” the ordinary people who designed, built, and operated the London landmark.

“This is the latest phase of our three-year redevelopment, celebrating more than 120-years of history at London’s best-loved landmark,” said Dirk Bennett, exhibition development manager.

Postal Museum gets 200,000 visitors in debut year

Nearly 200,000 people have visited London’s Postal Museum since the £26m (US$33.6m, €28.9m) attraction’s official launch one year ago.

Created to chronicle five centuries of social and communication history across Britain, the Feilden Clegg Bradley Studios-designed museum has been recognised as one of Britain’s best, being named a finalist in both the Art Fund’s Museum of the Year Award and for the National Lottery’s heritage awards.

Located at London’s largest sorting office, the Postal Museum welcomed 198,275 visitors in its debut year, with its full launch taking place on 4 September 2017.

“It’s been a momentous first year for us,” said Laura Wright, CEO at The Postal Museum. “Since opening, we’ve worked tirelessly to find engaging ways to deliver the history of the postal service.”

Revised plans will be submitted later this year for a long-awaited, underground visitor attraction on Dorset’s Jurassic Coast.

Named ‘The Journey’, the £20m scheme will be located in the disused Albion Stone mines in Portland.

Exact details of the facilities are to be confirmed, but the attraction will focus on biodiversity and be based on a gallery-style visitor journey, mixing ancient stone carvings with virtual and augmented reality.

The new plans replace the original designs for a £80m (US$105.6m, €89.2m) subterranean geological park called Jurassica at the site, which were shelved last year.

The original attraction – a subterranean geological park with a ‘dinosaur theme’ – was set to bring in 960,000 visitors annually and was scheduled to open by 2020.

Sally and Aardman partner for Shaun the Sheep ride

US-based dark ride specialist Sally Corporation has partnered with Aardman Animations to create a new ride, featuring characters from the popular Shaun the Sheep series.

Sally Corp has signed a deal with Bristol, UK-based Aardman to design and market an attraction, which will see riders step aboard a themed vehicle and be transported through the rural, rustic and colourful world of Shaun the Sheep.

The four-minute, interactive ride will feature dozens of scenes inspired by the stop motion series.

Ngaio Harding-Hill

“Shaun the Sheep loves new adventures and we’re thrilled by the opportunity to provide Shaun’s global family audiences with a unique way to immerse themselves in the world of our characters”, said Ngaio Harding-Hill, senior manager of attractions and live experiences at Aardman.

“Integrating Shaun’s slapstick humour into a dark ride promises to be an exciting partnership”.

Work begins on Northampton museum expansion

Construction work is set to begin on a £6.7m expansion of Northampton’s Museum and Art Gallery, following the appointment of a main contractor for the project.

The project – led by Northampton Borough Council – will see a dramatic transformation of Northampton’s Museum and Art Gallery, with a major expansion more than doubling the available public space.

Main elements of the expansion include a new 380sq m temporary exhibitions gallery.

A number of heritage projects in the Middle East and Africa have been given millions in funding by the Department for Digital, Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS) and the British Council. Awarded by the Cultural Protection Fund (CPF) – which was created to safeguard heritage of international importance threatened by conflict in the Middle East and North Africa – more than £3m (US$3.9m, €3.4m) has been awarded to nine different heritage projects.

Those receiving funding include “The Life Jacket” a project to revitalise and develop rural Jerusalem, in the occupied Palestinian territories. A grant of £1m (US$1.3m, €1.1m) has been awarded to the Palestinian Ministry of Tourism and Antiquities to restore the historic centres of Al Jib, Qalandiya, Jaba’ and Kafr’Aqab in the occupied Palestinian territories.

Another initiative to receive funding is the Community Museums of Western Sudan, where £997,000 (US$1.29m, €1.11m) will be used to restore three community museum in Omdurman, El Obeid, and Nyala. The facilities will provide for the educational and cultural needs of the region’s communities, visitors and tourists. Decades of ongoing conflict in the region have devastated communities, damaged heritage facilities and led to a loss of heritage skills.

Other projects to receive funding include an initiative to protect archaeological practice and heritage in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq; building community capacity and management frameworks for the protection of the historic town of Amedi in Iraq; and assessing the condition of the Afghan national art collection in Afghanistan.

“The Cultural Protection Fund is providing essential support to countries where heritage is threatened by conflict,” said minister for arts, heritage and tourism, Michael Ellis.

This year’s nine projects range from initiatives protecting Afghan art (top right) to the revitalisation and development of rural Jerusalem (middle left).
Wellness in the community

Wellness platform Hero has partnered with developer Moda to pioneer a new generation of ‘healthy rental communities’

Developer Moda has signed a pioneering partnership with wellness company Hero, which will look to create “the UK’s healthiest rental communities”. The partnership will see Hero provide a wide range of fitness and wellness services – including fitness hubs – at residential projects led by Moda. Rather than simply create gyms and shared amenities, however, the partnership is looking to “go one step further” by forging a “more inclusive approach to supporting its residents’ physical, social and mental wellbeing”.

As well as focusing on physical health, the partnership will provide support around nutrition and mindfulness. Hero will provide mental health first aid training to Moda’s on-site teams, helping them identify and provide support to those who may be developing a mental health issue.

“Our focus is to provide the healthiest possible environments alongside a great living experience cutting out the hassle and uncertainty that usually comes with renting,” said Johnny Caddick, managing director at Moda. “Loneliness and mental health are in issues facing society. Our aim is to create happy, healthy and productive communities that can help alleviate the daily pressures of city living.”

The partnership’s first project will see a 10,000sq ft Hero training club built at Moda’s 466-home, build-to-rent scheme called Angel Gardens in Manchester.

The training club will be split into four zones – Stronger, Athletic, Cardio and Rejuvenate – and unlike traditional gyms, members will either work out with a personal trainer or as part of a group class. Residents will also benefit from Hero’s wellness technology, which encourages people to live healthier lifestyles, pulling analytics from wearables used to track sleep, movement, nutrition and mood, as well as 3D body scanning. Angel Gardens is scheduled to open in 2019.

“Whether you’re a footballer, a researcher, a plumber or a teacher, the principles surrounding wellbeing and lifestyle are the same,” said Joe Gaunt, founder of Hero. “But we feel traditional gyms and healthcare aren’t tailored to individuals and don’t provide enough personal insight and support to help people achieve their unique goals.

“We believe we have the right mix to benefit our communities and using technology as an enabler we can better inform and educate people to make healthy choices.

“By partnering with Moda, we want to help enhance the experience for those living in city centres and bring all aspects of wellbeing and health right to the fore.”

With strategic funding partner Apache Capital Partners, Moda has a growing pipeline of 7,000 homes for rent across the UK with multiple city centre schemes underway across England and Scotland.

Aimed at young professionals, young families and downsizing seniors keen to reconnect with urban living, Moda plans to offer long-term tenancies and an array of shared spaces which will include over 80 co-working bays at Angels Gardens.

Gaunt is a former MD of shared space firm WeWork and has held senior roles at Virgin Active and Fitness First.

“By partnering with Moda, we want to help enhance the experience for those living in city centres and bring wellness to all”

Angel Gardens in Manchester will be the first joint Hero/Moda project
English Heritage has launched a new campaign for families to visit its castles, after a survey by the organisation revealed that children’s memories of castles are more than twice as likely to have come from film and fiction instead of a real-life visit.

A 2,000 person survey of both children and adults showed that while most adults’ first castle sightings are likely to have been in real life, almost two thirds of children remember their first memories from fictitious castles featured in the likes of Harry Potter, Cinderella and Frozen. Of the children surveyed, more than two thirds said that they enjoyed visiting castles, however less than 40 per cent had visited one in the last year, and 12 per cent had never been to one.

English Heritage manages 66 castles – more than any other organisation in Britain. In an effort to boost attendance through the summer months, the body has launched #LoveCastles – a campaign aiming to bring more families to these historic sites. As part of the campaign, English Heritage will offer a variety of events, ranging from jousting tournaments to sandcastle building workshops.

"While most of us can remember our first trip to a castle – whether on a day out with the family or a school trip – today’s children are increasingly likely to catch their first glimpse of a castle on a screen rather than in real life," said Kate Mavor, chief executive of English Heritage.

“This summer, English Heritage is calling on families up and down the country to reverse this trend, and take a day out to a real life castle, where kids can run around in the sunshine. “From Norman earthworks to mighty royal fortresses and from Cornwall to Northumberland, these castles and forts tell the turbulent and often surprising story of power, war and siege in England.

“We encourage you to explore the history of castles through time, learn more about medieval life, and plan a memorable day out at a castle near you.”

Meet the Leisure Opps recruitment team

Liz Terry  Julie Badrick  Paul Thorman  Sarah Gibbs  Chris Barnard  Gurpreet Lidder
Managing Director

Location: Redditch, UK
Salary: Up to £81,190 per annum

Can you make a difference to the Leisure and Cultural Services in Redditch?

Redditch Borough Council has recently established a wholly owned Company to provide its sport, leisure and cultural services to the residents of Redditch and beyond. The newly established company is at the start of its journey, playing a pivotal role alongside the council and its partners to transform participation in sport and culture and making a real difference to people’s lives. The company will get more people, more active, more often – in the full range of opportunities ranging from the Leisure Centre to the Theatre. We are looking to recruit a Managing Director who is equally passionate about our ambitions for the contribution that culture and sport can play in the regeneration of our area, and who has the skills to play a strategic role in a place-based partnership.

Reporting to the Board of Directors, you will provide leadership, vision and direction to shape and develop the company’s strategic plans and deliver on its key priorities and outcomes.

A team player, committed to public sector values, you will have the ambition, experience and skills to lead and develop a business which delivers accessible, high quality services for the people of Redditch. You will have the vision and inspiration to lead and motivate a professional team and a proven track record at a senior level of developing and implementing strategies and plans to achieve business goals and objectives, along with an understanding of the commercial aspects of the role. Experience of successfully managing significant organisational change and development, including leading multi-disciplinary projects, will be a key requirement for the role. A track record of success in a senior leadership role within the cultural and/or leisure sector is also considered critical for this post. It goes without saying that the Company needs a true leader who, with the team, can drive the Company forward through vision and innovation, setting standards along the way and building sustainable relationships, both internally and externally. We need someone who is not afraid to make hard decisions when required and someone who advocates change to ensure those decisions are bought into and delivered at all levels.

To apply for this position you must have an appropriate professional qualification and at least five years’ experience in a senior position. Experience of working in a senior role that reports directly to Shareholders / Directors would be advantageous.

The closing date for receipt of completed applications is Monday 24 September 2018. The selection process to be held during the first two weeks of October.

To apply please click “apply now” below. If you experience any difficulties applying online, please contact our recruitment line on (01527) 534117. CV’s alone will not be accepted.

If you do not hear from us within four weeks of the closing date, you should assume that your application was not successful on this occasion.

We are an equal opportunities employer and welcome applications from all Sections of the Community

DEPARTMENT FOR COMMUNITIES
Sport & Leisure - Based in Sport & Leisure Management Office, Carmarthen Leisure Centre

Actif Operations Manager

£45,602 - £50,204 (Grade M)  Ref.: 019054

Actif Sport & Leisure, Carmarthenshire County Council's in-house operation, aspires to be sector-leading in all areas. Significant progress has been made towards this aspiration with the last 5 years having seen an income increase circa 25%, capital investment, service and customer experience improvement and member increase.

We want a confident and experienced person to join us as our Operations Manager – a brand new position within our organisation – with the capability and drive to take us to the next level!

The Operations Manager will be responsible for the financial and operational performance of our 8 facilities and community teams, developing and implementing operational strategies and working closely with business development leads to ensure effective implementation of business strategies through robust business planning and delivery.

In addition, planning for the brand new £200m Llanelli Wellness and Life Sciences Village is underway – destined to be one of the most pioneering facilities in the country and housing a new brand name of the state art leisure centre. The successful candidate will play a key role in its development, delivery and future management, with expected completion 2021/22.

If that’s you, we want to receive your application!

A basic knowledge of Welsh is required to accomplish this post. Support can be provided on appointment to reach this level.

For an informal discussion please contact Carl Daniels on 01554 744231.

Duty Managers

Location: Stockport, UK
Salary: Circa £17,500 – £20,000 per annum
Closing date: 08 Oct 2018

Our Duty Managers are enthusiastic, committed and hardworking individuals who supervise and lead the centre team during their shift, ensuring everyone maintains lifeLEISURE’s high standards, delivers exceptional customer service, communicates effectively and complies with operational procedures. In addition, they play a key role in supporting the centre to achieve sales and retention targets in order to assist with the achievement of lifeLEISURE’s business objectives.

The Duty Manager role has been a stepping stone for many of our team members who have followed personalised training plans and progressed either into leisure management or other areas of the business.

As six lifeLEISURE centres have pools and our Duty Managers may be required to work at any of our facilities, a National Pool Lifeguard Qualification (NPLQ) is essential for this post, however, if do you not currently have the qualification we can support you to gain it.

Reflecting our Preferred Behaviours = Personal Best culture, Life Leisure have ‘Behaviour Profiles’ rather than job descriptions. Click here to see the Behaviour Profile for this role.

Why work for Life Leisure?
Our culture of Preferred Behaviours = Personal Best underpins everything that we do at Life Leisure. All staff who are recognised as demonstrating the Preferred Behaviours have the opportunity to be invited to join our Sentinel Programme where they take an active role in the future of Life Leisure by creating, developing and implementing new idea and products/services, whilst being mentored and learning new skills to help them become Life Leisure’s future leaders.

In addition to our highly-regarded Sentinel programme, other benefits you’ll receive through working for Life Leisure include:
- Gym membership
- Contributory pension scheme

Duty Manager

Withington, Manchester, UK
Salary: £18,400 - £19,200

Love Withington Baths (LWB) is a charitable organisation with a vision to provide accessible and affordable high quality leisure opportunities for Withington residents and businesses (www.lovewithingtonbaths.com). Withington Leisure Centre is 100 years old and contains a 60-station gym, 22 x 6m pool, sauna, two refurbished studios, physiotherapy room and a small café.

The role of Duty Manager

Reporting directly to the Facility Manager we are looking for a highly motivated and experienced Duty Manager with a minimum of 5 years’ experience in the leisure industry. The role will require flexible working with a shift pattern based on 40 hours a week; including early starts, evenings and weekends. This successful candidate will be a strong leader capable of meeting this varied and challenging role. They will have a proven track record of producing a cohesive and productive team of staff to enable the smooth running of this unique historic leisure centre. We are constantly looking to improve what we do at the Baths and the Duty Manager should be able to identify opportunities based on emerging leisure trends and member needs and to implement these innovations effectively.

Applicants for this role will need:
- First Aid at Work Qualification
- Knowledge of Health and Safety Requirements
- NPLQ
- Pool Plant Operators qualification
- Management and/or coaching qualification
- ASA/STA Swimming Teacher qualification
- Level 2 Fitness Instructor Qualification (NVQ or similar)
- Personal training qualification

We will be operating a flexible staffing structure with all staff required to work across the facility. If you do not have the above desirable qualifications, you will be provided with this training during year 1, so that you can subsequently undertake associated tasks.

The person we are after will:
- Have excellent verbal, written and IT communication skills
- Have a good track record of managing the day to day running of a busy leisure centre
- Work with the Facility manager and staff to implement effective business development strategy to grow membership numbers and contain costs
- Ensure the building and its equipment are maintained and operated in accordance with specified procedures and that the required standards of cleanliness are maintained
- Strive to deliver high customer service standards in all aspects of the facility
- Be responsible for the motivation and development of staff so they can achieve their full potential

In line with the Immigration, Nationality and Asylum Act, all applicants will be expected to provide proof of eligibility to work in the UK if invited to interview. We welcome applications from all backgrounds and all sections of the community. This post is also subject to an enhanced DBS check.

Please apply by submitting a letter of application, addressing the above points and your suitability for this position, along with your CV by clicking on ‘apply now’.

Deadline for receipt of applications is 4th October 2018 with interviews taking place on the week beginning 8th October 2018.

Anticipated start date is week beginning 12th November 2018.
I’d been retired for five years and I was bored. I’m still pretty fit and wanted to spend a few hours each week doing something to keep me active, that was valuable to the community too. I trained to be a Swimming Teacher and I’ve never looked back! I’ve now taught hundreds of people of all ages a valuable life skill. I work anywhere between four and ten hours a week, so I still have plenty of time to relax too.

Train to be a STA-qualified swimming teacher. Swimming Teachers can work flexible hours across a variety of shifts, and you could train to be one in only five days with GLL College.
