In many of the schools visited for the report, the more able pupils were not challenged sufficiently because teachers’ expectations of them were simply too low.

However, he said the report found more good and outstanding PE than at the last time of the survey in 2008.

A report released by Ofsted recommends the government develop a new national strategy on PE and sports in schools, with teaching in more than a quarter of schools not improving pupils’ fitness.

The Beyond 2012 report, released on 14 February, found PE and sport had benefited from “considerable” investment over the past decade but said the Department of Education needed to harness momentum from the Olympics and Paralympics.

According to the report, one fifth of primary schools did not ensure all pupils learnt to swim, many teachers lacked specialist PE knowledge and only a minority of schools played competitive sport to a high level.

Her Majesty’s chief inspector Sir Michael Wilshaw said PE lessons often did not involve enough strenuous activity.

“In many of the schools visited for the report, the more able pupils were not challenged sufficiently because teachers’ expectations of them were simply too low.”

However, he said the report found more good and outstanding PE than at the last time of the survey in 2008.

The report also found very few schools had adapted PE programmes to suit the needs of overweight and obese students – despite the NHS classifying three out of 10 children as obese.

Chair of the Youth Sport Trust Baroness Sue Campbell welcomed Ofsted’s recommendation for a national strategy on PE and sport.

“There is no doubt that the Olympics and Paralympics have put PE back on the political agenda. But we now need to make sure that this momentum is used to harness PE and sport in the years ahead.”

Ofsted has commissioned a follow-up report examining the quality of competitive sport in the state sector compared with that offered in the independent sector. Details: http://lei.sr?a=fo03O

Love Parks, a project to conserve parks and green space across England, has received a £416,450 grant from Big Lottery Funding to develop a network of trained volunteers.

Run by parks charity GreenSpace the launch of the project coincides with their Love Parks Week, which encourages people to organise and attend events during the summer school holidays (27 July – 4 August). To date an estimated 500,000 volunteers have worked to improve the country’s green spaces. Details: http://lei.sr?a=q3O2f

Cyclebeat makes London debut

A new cycling studio concept aiming to put a ‘high-tech spin’ on the indoor cycling phenomenon was launched in London last week (13 February). The new Cyclebeat studio has a stadium-style layout and a motivating performance Beatboard, designed to offer customers a more inclusive and interactive cycling experience than those offered by traditional gyms.

The concept offers riders an experience which starts the moment they log onto the studio website. Having decided which class they would like to attend, riders can reserve a particular bike just as they would when booking a seat on a plane, while checking out their instructor’s profile and even listening to a sample playlist. Meanwhile, the club’s ‘Beatboard’ will allow riders to see their performance streamed live onto a board.

£24m ON-X centre to open in March

The new ON-X community leisure complex in Linwood, Renfrewshire, Scotland will open its doors on 25 March. Designed by Cre8 Architecture, the centre has been designed to be the region’s primary leisure hub and houses three pool areas comprising a 25m six-lane competition pool; a 15m learner pool; and a leisure pool. The filtration systems for the pools were supplied by Barr + Wray.

A sports hall, squash courts and health club featuring a 600sq m (6,500sq ft) fitness suite and four dance studios will also form part of the complex, as well as five-a-side pitches and an improved athletics track on the exterior. It has been built by BAM Construction.

Outdoor facilities at the centre will include an eight-lane, all weather athletics arena, flood lit synthetic football parks for both 7-a-side and 11-a-side games and grass parks for both football and rugby.

In addition to its sporting facilities, the hub will also feature an adult day care centre. The opening of ON-X is part of Renfrewshire Council’s £103m investment in local facilities. Once the new centre is open, three existing leisure facilities will be demolished. Details: http://lei.sr?a=1voL6

‘Extreme cycling’ could make Olympic debut at Rio

UCI, the world governing body for cycling, has tabled plans to extend the 2016 Olympic Games cycling programme to include three extra events. Among the new events would be freestyle BMX biking and an additional mountain bike eliminator event, adding to the two race events held at London 2012. If successful, the addition of BMX freestyle would be the first time that an extreme sport discipline would feature at a summer Olympic Games.

£2.7m sports centre for Weston

A new multi-million pound sports centre has opened at Worle Community School in Weston-super-Mare, Somerset. The @Worle Centre features a 3G full size artificial turf football pitch with floodlighting, which is also suitable for full contact rugby training.

A fitness suite and a dance studio with sprung wooden floor and light system is also housed at the facility as well as a sand based artificial turf pitch for hockey and other multi sports. The centre is managed by @Worle Trust, which is made up of representatives of Worle School, North Somerset Council, the Brandon Trust and the Somerset County Football Association.

Other facilities include multi purpose rooms, indoor and outdoor changing facilities and a café. The building work, carried out by Willmott Dixon, started in April last year and was completed in December.

The centre will also provide day service facilities for adults with learning disabilities, which are provided by the Brandon Trust and Banwell Pottery. Details: http://lei.sr?a=17Yor
SRA and ukactive join forces

The Sport and Recreation Alliance (SRA) and ukactive have joined forces to get more people active and to help national governing bodies (NGBs) understand the public health agenda – with a number of new reforms to be introduced in April.

At an Alliance divisional meeting this month ukactive presented on the shifting health landscape in the first step in the partnership.

Chief executive of ukactive David Stalker said: “By forging a working partnership between ukactive and the Sport and Recreation Alliance we hope to be able to share some of our knowledge of public health delivery, specifically how to target inactive populations and maximise local engagement in sport and physical activity.”

From April NGPs will be responsible for the commissioning of community health services, such as emergency care, and local authorities will receive around £2.7bn annually for the commissioning of public health services.

Chief executive of the Sport and Recreation Alliance Tim Lamb said: “When you look at our combined membership we have a huge footprint and I am sure we can really put that to use in tackling ill-health.”

The organisations are currently working on a memorandum of understanding that will see their objectives more closely aligned. Details: http://lei.sr?a=s4N1l

£5m investment made in Sports Coach UK

Sport England is to invest £5m in Sports Coach UK over the next two years as part of plans to improve sports coaching in the country.

Having secured the funding, Sports Coach UK will now focus its work in four areas. These include working with sports governing bodies to support the development of coaches; supporting county sports partnerships to build effective local coaching networks; and increasing the supply of high-quality and appropriate coaching courses, education and development opportunities.

It will also use research to develop and share insight to support the development of coaching and coaches.

Sports Coach UK chair, Chris Baillieu, said: “The investment from Sport England makes a strong statement about the importance of coaching at all levels in increasing participation, retention and performance. “During the next two years we will continue to work with our partners towards the goal of excellent coaching, every time for everyone.” Details: http://lei.sr?a=d2A6g

Sports Coach UK will use the funding partly on its development work and maximise local engagement in sport and physical activity. Details: http://lei.sr?a=e1w5R

Worcester City Council considers outsourcing management

Worcester City Council is the latest local authority to consider cost saving measures in sports and leisure by outsourcing management services. At a budget meeting on 19 February councillors will vote on proposals to outsource management of the Nunnery Wood Sports Centre and St. Johns Sports Centre to leisure trusts. Funding cuts from central government mean the council needs to save £686,000 in the 2013/14 year. Details: http://lei.sr?a=k4N9W

Application submitted for Sussex leisure facility

A planning application for a new sports pavilion at Bolnore Village in Haywards Heath has been submitted to Mid Sussex District Council.

The design, submitted by London architects Milan Babic in December, includes a main hall, meeting facilities, a kitchen, storage, changing rooms and car parking on the open space site.

Developer Crest Nicholson provided the land and some funding towards the cost of the facility as part of an agreement with the council regarding the Bolnore Village development. Details: http://lei.sr?a=8e6f6
Work has started on a new £11m leisure centre for West Bromwich due to open in summer 2014.

The centre will include a 25m pool with learner pool, sauna, steam room, four-court sports hall, 100-station fitness suite, dance studio, indoor children’s adventure play centre and parking.

DC Leisure is behind the planning for the facility and will also build, run and maintain the complex.

Plans were approved by Sandwell Council last October with conditions relating to opening hours, and the submission of further details on external materials, drainage, lighting and CCTV.

Development director for DC Leisure Peter Kirkham said: “In partnership with Sandwell Council we aim to continue the legacy of the London Olympic and Paralympic Games by encouraging increased participation in physical activity and sport.”

Sandwell councillor Linda Horton said: “The West Bromwich Leisure Centre will provide a real focal point for the local community and we hope that the new facilities will help improve the health and wellbeing of families in the area.”

DLL opens second PT studio

David Lloyd Leisure (DLL) has opened its second DL Studio site - a high street-based concept offering personal training services for time-poor clients of all fitness levels.

The studios provide one-to-one personal training sessions, exercise classes and group training run by DLL-qualified instructors.

There are no memberships, with clients given a variety of options to purchase blocks of three or 10 sessions, or to pay monthly. The inaugural DL Studio opened on Upper Richmond Road in Putney, London and a third is planned in the centre of London. DLL is investing £500,000 in the three initial sites.

Typically sized between 1,500sq ft and 2,500sq ft, offer a retail area with sports and nutritional products for sale, including exercise equipment, healthy snacks and supplements.

DL Studio Winchester manager Alastair Crew said: “I’m looking forward to bringing this new studio concept to Winchester.

“I’m excited by the positive response we’ve received so far and I can’t wait to start helping the people of Winchester move towards their fitness goals.”

The Register of Aquatic Professionals (RAPs) has officially been launched into its pilot phase.

Owned and operated by SkillsActive, the scheme has been developed in partnership with employers and looks to provide verification that those working in the sector are fully qualified to perform their roles. It will also bring together three awarding organisations – Amateur Swimming Association (ASA), Swimming Teachers Association (STA) and Royal Life Saving Society (RLSS) – for the first time to work toward the development of one single qualification structure for each aquatic role.

It is hoped that increased professionalism and standards will lead to increased participation in swimming in Britain, benefiting both the industry and the sport.

The four-month pilot period will initially cover England, with plans to roll the scheme out across the UK. Following the pilot, RAPs will formally launch to the aquatic industry in the summer.

The scheme will initially be rolled out across England and then UK-wide.

A new £8m swimming pool and leisure complex in Tipton, Sandwell is set to launch at the end of March. Led by Hertfordshire-based construction group Willmott Dixon, Tipton Leisure Centre occupies a vacant site at the corner of Alexandra Road and Thursfield Road in Tipton. Facilities at the centre include a 25m, six-lane swimming pool, 12.5m teaching pool, gym and fitness classes and dance studio.

The centre, designed by Sandwell Urban Design Architects, will be managed by Sandwell Leisure Trust.

Preferred location selected for Tewkesbury centre

A preferred location has been decided for a proposed Gloucestershire leisure centre should Tewkesbury Borough Council go ahead with plans to replace an existing leisure centre built in 1969.

If approved, the new facility at Gloucestershire Road would likely include a 25m pool, 20m learning pool, fitness gym, dance studio, health suite and café.

The estimated cost of refurbishing the existing Cascades Leisure Centre at Spring Gardens is £3.8m.

Rebuilding on the current site was deemed unsuitable, as customers would be without a leisure centre while building took place, which is anticipated to take two years. A new facility is forecast to save the council considerable money with energy efficient facilities. Details: http://lei.sr?a=R4v5o

The contract will include the Redcar and Community Heart centre when it opens in 2014.

SLM secures contract for five leisure centres

Sports Leisure Management (SLM), trading under its brand Everyone Active, has signed a contract with Redcar and Cleveland Borough Council to take over management of five leisure centres from Tees Valley Leisure on 1 April 2013.

The contract includes Redcar Leisure Centre, which is due to close in 2014. The centre will be replaced by the £31m Redcar Leisure and Community Heart - currently under construction nearby.

Other centres included in the contract are Guisborough, Loftus, Saltburn and Eston. As part of the contract, £1.5m will be invested in upgrading the centres to provide new equipment and to improve gym areas and exercise studios.

SLM secured the contract after Redcar and Cleveland Borough Council announced that financial pressures caused the local authority to seek a new leisure operator.

It is estimated that the contract with Everyone Active will make savings of £500,000 per year in running the centres. Details: http://lei.sr?a=w8s7K

HOTELS

Melia opens luxury London hotel

Melia Hotels International has launched a new luxury hotel – ME London – in Marconi House, the original London home of BBC radio.

Located on the Strand on the southern tip of Covent Garden, the property offers a collection of 157 guestrooms including 16 suites and a two-floor penthouse.

The hotel is designed by Foster + Partners’ architects and is the group’s first UK hotel project. The interiors focus on contemporary detailing with a monochrome palette, as guests move from dark to light spaces. A range of in-room Spa treatments are available upon request. The fitness centre features a range of equipment such as vibrating plates, treadmills, cross trainers and bikes. The gym area will also include a range of weight machine and floor working areas.

Nigel Dancey, senior partner, Foster + Partners said: “We took the city as our inspiration: the grand scale of Aldwych, the detailing of neighbouring Marconi House, the views over the West End from the roof and drew on these. The site is right in the heart of Theatreland and has a fascinating history, most notably as the home of the Gaiety Theatre – we tried to recapture a little of the spirit of the stage.”

Dining options include the STK steakhouse and grill offering guests a contemporary grill-menu and 16 private dining areas, while Cucina Asellina serves rustic Italian cuisine. Details: http://lei.sr?a=W0J9s

BBC centre to house hotel and attractions

London’s BBC Television Centre in White City is to be redeveloped into a cultural quarter that will include a hotel, entertainment and leisure facilities and public open space. For the first time, the television centre will be opened up to the public with the famous forecourt remodelled into new retail, leisure and entertainment areas.

Property developer Stanhope is responsible for the project, which will see the main circular building, known as “the doughnut” become a hotel and apartments. A statement from Stanhope said that some offices would become “a variety of public uses, including a cinema, health club, restaurants and cafes, which will benefit the local community”. Other buildings will be transformed into offices and houses and the 14-acre site will also house the BBC’s commercial arm, BBC Worldwide.

David Camp, chief executive of developers Stanhope, said: “The BBC will continue to have a significant presence at Television Centre and we will be bringing new life into the site with new public routes, spaces and uses,” adding that “the much loved listed buildings at Television Centre will be retained”.

Other developments for the site include replacing the drama block, restaurant block and multi-storey car park with new residential buildings and townhouses. The East Tower will be replaced with a more slender residential building. Details: http://lei.sr?a=voVoI
Retail Business Technology Expo (RBTE)

Europe’s fastest growing solutions event is set to attract over 8,000 visitors to Earls Court in March.

RBTE is the essential event for retail and hospitality and leisure organisations looking for the right tools, solutions and advice on how to best run their business. It is a one stop shop, showcasing end to end solutions, from supply chain to the customer.

With over 250 leading exhibitors including Aures, Bleep, K3, Micros and Toshiba and Verifone, visitors to RBTE will be able to see the most innovative products and solutions to help them run their businesses even more effectively. In addition to the wide range of exhibitors, RBTE also has an extensive educational programme, with three conference theatres (with one dedicated to cards & payments), two Pecha Kucha theatres, which will feature bite sized seminars, plus numerous workshops.

Great discussion
Topics being discussed in the education programme include loyalty, customer engagement, NFC, the role of social media, and mobile payments. Adam Pikett, CEO, SportsPursuit, will be discussing ‘Marketing: Smart Personalisation for Increased Revenue’, looking at how SportsPursuit has seen a marked increase in revenue following their adoption of a timely, relevant and personalised marketing approach. Attendees to this session will hear how technology enabled 2012’s ‘New eRetailer of the Year’ to translate the company’s ‘big data’ into relevant, intuitive, and at the same time automated campaigns that have increased customer acquisition and retention rates and delivered demonstrable return on investment.

Jon Lane, head of e-commerce, Surfdomie, will be discussing international expansion with ‘Breaking Down Borders; How to Expand Internationally’, examining how borders are blurring and more retailers than ever before are looking to new regions to boost their sales. E-commerce is helping retailers test international waters with low barriers to entry.

Multi-channel integration will also be discussed by Helen Slaven, senior vice president of retail at Micros EAME, looking at how organisations can achieve the holy grail of a fully joined up multichannel platform, and what the next-steps are for retail, from how the emergence of services such as SaaS and the Cloud can help in the deployment of an effective mobile strategy, to how an integrated platform is crucial to the success of international expansion.

Expert opinions
Visitors looking for innovation won’t be disappointed thanks to the launch of The Innovation Theatre, sponsored by The Cloud. RBTE 2013 will host an exciting new initiative – this feature area will provide visitors with the opportunity to see the most cutting edge, innovative and inspirational products and solutions on offer from the exhibitors at RBTE, selected by the steering committee.

There will also be plenty of experts on hand to ensure that visitors to RBTE have an even more productive visit, RBTE 2013 will host the Retail Advice Centre. Industry experts will be on hand over the two days to provide one-to-one advice and information across all areas of retail. From enquiries about exhibitors and advice on which ones can help with particular solutions to key industry issues such as PCI, mobile, Big Data, loyalty and NFC, experts from leading associations, consultancies and organisations will be providing FREE advice! Individual consult can also be booked at the Expo.
Lincoln Castle is to undergo a multi-million pound redevelopment to “bring the castle to life,” which includes opening the Victorian male prison for the first time in years.

Both prison buildings will be refurbished and the project will see the creation of a new vault to showcase Magna Carta and the Charter of the Forest. The castle walls will also be repaired and a complete wall walk will be created, along with a new café, shop and education space.

The project is planned to be completed in time for Magna Carta’s 800th anniversary in 2015. In addition to the £12m funding from the Heritage Lottery Fund and the £5.2m from the Lincolnshire County Council, a bid has been made for £5m of European funding.

The remaining cost will be raised through further fundraising and a charity called the Historic Lincoln Trust. In order to repair damage caused by harsh weather conditions, repairs have already begun on the South Curtain wall. An independent assessment concluded that the project could lead to a 29-55 per cent increase and a £36-£68m boost for the Lincoln tourism economy.

Development grant for Derry maritime museum

A proposed Maritime Museum and Archive Centre for Erbrington in Derry-Londonderry has been awarded a development grant of £278,000 by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

The grant will be used to create more detailed plans to secure a further £3m for the proposed visitor attraction, which would see two listed buildings within a former military site converted into a museum and archive. The Heritage and Museum Service’s archive of some 30,000 items would be opened to the general public in exhibitions tracing the history of the River Foyle. Details: http://lei.sr?a=y6C6D

New Abbey Museum of Costume to close

National Museum of Costume at Shambellie House, New Abbey, Dumfries and Galloway, is set to close due to lack of public funding and low visitor numbers.

The decision to close the site was taken following meetings discussing a range of options for making savings across all national museums activity.

The attraction, which first opened in 1982, was shut for the winter and will not open in 2013. Details: http://lei.sr?a=TiGiw

Guests at Macdonald Spa Hotels can now get a free health check on top of spa treatments at 17 of the hotel group’s spa resorts across the UK. The Vital Health & Wellbeing Checks – provided by Fitech and already used by the fitness industry, medical departments and educational sector, as well as military, police and fire service – were launched in January. Macdonald is one of the first hotel groups to introduce the service.

In an initial consultation, guests are talked through their current health status, wellness goals and motivation, being questioned about stress levels, nutrition, drinking habits, smoking and activity levels. Physical checks go through blood pressure, resting heart rate, body mass index (BMI), body fat percentage, lung function, flexibility and aerobic fitness.

Resulting information is collated in a personal report highlighting areas where individuals have room for improvement, and advice given on how to improve lifestyle choices – taking into account work and family commitments.

A 12-week review and six-monthly progress updates provide ongoing information and advice and ensure guests are supported after their stay. Details: http://lei.sr?a=I6x5c

UK experiences ‘best year ever’

Spending by overseas visitors to UK in 2012 reached a record-breaking level of £19bn – an increase of more than 4 per cent on 2011.

Figures released today by VisitBritain also show that there was an increase in the number of arrivals, with more than 31 million international tourists enjoying a holiday across Britain – the best year since 2008. It is estimated that the increases were sufficient to create 4,000 new jobs.

The Olympic Games and the Queen’s Diamond Jubilee were partly credited with the increases, with the UK also experiencing strong recovery from the high spending and vital North American (up 3.7 million visits) and A12 European countries (up 2.8 million), also the strongest since 2008.

A12 countries include eastern European and Baltic countries - such as Bulgaria, Romania, Latvia and Lithuania - as well as the islands of Malta and Cyprus.

December 2012 was a particular strong month for inbound tourism with a 12 per cent increase on visits over the previous December and a 15 per cent increase in spend. Details: http://lei.sr?a=j9k6x

Funding boost for Morecambe tourism

Morecambe Bay Partnership has secured funding worth £490,000 for Bay-wide tourism projects. The investment from Coastal Communities Fund will be used to kickstart a project called ‘700 Days to Transform the Bay’, aiming to attract more visitors.

The project will connect and signpost a 200km (124m) ‘Bay Cycle Way’ starting in Heysham. In addition, the scheme will develop apps to improve information for visitors and provide training places to support tourism businesses. Details: http://lei.sr?a=L3i4B

New tourism body for ‘Shakespeare country’

A new tourism body for Stratford and Warwickshire, Shakespeare’s England, will launch a campaign to promote the region as a rural escape destination in late February.

The campaign will see it join forces with VisitEngland for a second time this year, following the Romantic Heritage Cities campaign, which ran for two weeks in January and promoted Stratford-Upon-Avon among six other destinations around the UK.

The Great Rural Escape Destination campaign will promote Stratford and Warwickshire’s market towns among other rural UK attractions.

The marketing campaigns are part of VisitEngland’s three-year investment project Growing Tourism Locally, which aims to generate £365m in additional tourism spend between 2012-15 and create over 9,000 jobs. Shakespeare’s Birthplace, Warwick Castle and the Royal Shakespeare Company are among the attractions the tourism body seeks to promote. Details: http://lei.sr?a=moV6X

Management of fitness gym

Hillingdon Council invites expressions of interest in respect of the health and fitness gym in the Goals complex located next to Minet Country Park based on the two options below.

We will consider proposals based on what represents best value for residents and draw up a shortlist. Discussions with selected bidders will be held and more detailed information requested, including best and final offers. Any such approved bid will be subject to a suitable agreement being drawn up between the council and the preferred party.

Option 1: From companies who are suitably qualified and experienced to manage a health and fitness gym. The centre has the capacity for approximately a 100 station health and fitness facility, office and dance studio.

The council is proposing a fixed term agreement with a contractor for a term of up to 7 years commencing on 1 September 2013.

Expressions of interest must include:
- A detailed description of how the centre will be managed.
- The length of the fixed term agreement (minimum of 3 years).
- Preliminary financial details including proposed charges for the activities and a rental proposal.
- Latest company reports and accounts.

Option 2: From parties who would enter into a lease for a term of 10 years with a permitted use of fitness suite and office, with shared use of the toilet and shower facilities with Goals customers. The gym area comprises of 363.40 sq m NIA, which will be operated as an independent gym.

Expressions of interest must include:
- Details of any previous businesses operated
- Confirmation that the party is not intending to change the permitted user under the lease, nor carry out any structural alterations to the property.

Expressions of interest must be received by 22 March 2013, made to: Susan Williams-Joseph

Plans submitted for new £8.7m Surrey centre

Plans for a £8.7m leisure, community and youth centre have been submitted to Reigate & Banstead Borough Council (RBBC) for a site at Merland Rise, Surrey.

The development would include a 25m six-lane swimming pool, teaching pool, 50-station gym, dance and exercise studios, four-court sports hall, football pitches, café, crèche and wet and dry changing studios.

An application for 130 new homes on the site of the existing Banstead Leisure Centre, which would remain open until replacement facilities were open - forecast for autumn 2014.

Councillor Natalie Bramhall said the redevelopment of the old leisure centre would help pay for the new facilities.

Facilities at the centre will include a swimming pool and large gym

The outcome of the application will be decided in spring and, if approved, work to build the centre will begin in autumn. The development is being funded by a joint venture between the RBBC and the Surrey County Council. Details: http://lei.sr?a=X8D6t

£76.4m GAA stadium designs unveiled

Ulster Gaelic Athletics Association (GAA) has launched a new design for the multi-million pound Casement Park Stadium, which will be developed by Olympic stadium designers Populous. The redeveloped West Belfast stadium will cost in excess of £76.4m, which is being funded by the NI Executive through Department of Culture, Arts and Leisure (£61.4m) and GAA (£15m).

The project will include a new 38,000-seated stadium on the existing Casement site with the full demolition and disposal of the existing Casement Park Facilities. The Casement Park Stadium Project Board, which manages the project on behalf of Ulster GAA, expects the stadium to be open in time to host the 2016 GAA Ulster Final.

Other features will include a new playing surface to established GAA standards, development of corporate and community facilities, all ancillary facilities including player facilities, warm up area, medical and safety facilities, crowd control centre, event management suite and press centre. Details: http://lei.sr?a=B8j6Z

Reading FC to resubmit Madejski Stadium proposals

Reading Football Club will resubmit plans to expand Madejski Stadium in Berkshire as planning permission for an expansion submitted in 2007 has expired.

The application would have allowed the club to increase its capacity at the stadium from 24,500 to 38,000 but building would have to have commenced by November, which the club says will not happen. Sir John Madejski, who owns the club, said the expansion would only go ahead if the club remained in the premier league. Details: http://lei.sr?a=c1o5R

Crawley leisure centre set for major transformation

K2 Crawley leisure centre in West Sussex is set for a £650,000 reconfiguration that will see the centre house a new music and comedy venue. Other plans for K2 include an expansion of the gymnastics hall with a second gymnastics floor space and a new three-tier soft play area.

The council’s proposed changes would also see the removal of its indoor bowls green. Crawley Borough Council, which held a public consultation on the project, said that the majority of people support the plans. Details: http://lei.sr?a=R8A6O

Retail expansion set to replace Sunderland centre

Crowtree Leisure Centre in Sunderland is set to close making way for more shops in the city centre, pending council approval.

The facility, built in the 1970s, includes squash courts, trampolining, a bowls hall, and studios for gymnastics, dance and karate. Subject to Cabinet approval in March the centre will be partially demolished to make way for an expansion of the adjacent Bridges shopping centre to improve the offer for shoppers in Sunderland and to create jobs. Details: http://lei.sr?a=Z3h2w

New leisure facilities for Westbridge Park

Plans to develop new leisure facilities, including a 25m swimming pool and fitness centre, are underway at Westbridge Park in Stone, Staffordshire.

Stafford Borough Council is launching a public consultation on the proposed development that includes plans for aerobic studios and new children and teenage play facilities. The borough council said that the main part of the park’s green space will be preserved and the open space and event space for festivals will be retained and improved. Details: http://lei.sr?a=a6K2C

Getting into leisure

While the rest of the UK economy is recovering slowly, the fitness industry is booming. Leisure Opportunities spoke to industry experts and recent school leavers for advice on how to best secure that first job in this growth sector.

What a difference a year makes. In our school leaver special issue of February 2012, we featured an Office for National Statistics (ONS) report, which showed that unemployment in the UK had reached a 16-year high in January 2012. Roll forward 12 months and it is clear that the ‘green shoots’ of recovery are finally visible. Although we aren’t out of the woods yet, there is evidence that the active leisure sector is growing faster than most.

Getting in shape
But how then, do you approach a career in this growing market? Trends are increasingly fast moving and when choosing a training course, how do you know what will stand you in good stead – not just today but in the future too? According to Debra Stuart, CEO of Premier Training, the health and fitness industry has become much more professional thanks to the setting up of the Register of Exercise Professionals (REPs).

Stuart said: “In the early 1990s, the industry came under much scrutiny following a damning Which? report which basically said all fitness instructors were a bunch of cowboys with little or no qualifications. "At the time, the sector was faced with a call from government to either be regulated or self-regulate. The fitness industry agreed to self-regulate and as such the REPs was set up. REPs has certainly helped set minimum entry standards for education in the sector

Karl Smith

Where are you working and what is your position?
Lead coach/fitness manager at David Lloyd Leisure, Hatfield

What does your day-to-day role include?
I have a few roles within my job role. I have one-to-ones with all the personal trainers that work at the club to make sure there on target with growing there business and servicing our members. I also manage gym budgets relating to hitting monthly targets on personal training, employing personal trainers to service the floor etc.

What attracted you to the leisure industry?
I’ve always been interested in sport from a young age – especially rugby, spending seven years in the Northampton Saints academy. However could not pursue any further in my career and chose to be in a job which I would stay active and also be able to use my experience that I had learnt through my academy years.

How easy was it to find a job?
In the leisure industry there are so many possibilities when applying for a job for example David Lloyd, Virgin Active, council gyms, cruise ships, freelance etc so to find a job its easy. However, with the many people qualifying as a personal trainer getting these jobs is hard as you will be up against 15 people for one position.

How did you enter the industry after leaving school?
After leaving Moulton College I found it rather easy as being in the AASE programme at college we had to be professional and committed to our work and training. Applying this to the fitness industry helped me massively as you have to keep these attributes when waking up at 6am all the way through to finishing at 9pm so that my members get the best experience regardless of time of day.

What training courses did you undertake?
I did my course through Moulton College to get my REPs level 3 personal training. to assist this I got boxing, spinning and circuit qualifications. Here at David Lloyd I find the company supports the trainers very well sending you on powerplate, Vipr, PTA Globel, Les Mills and many other training courses.

Any advice for school leavers looking to get into the industry?
My biggest advice for all school leavers is to get their qualifications and then apply for jobs at big operators – such as David Lloyd or Virgin Active. They have systems set up that give people new to the industry the best start to learn the industry etc. But to get in these clubs can be hard. So my advice is to show that you are charismatic, professional, self motivated and have a good knowledge of the club you are applying for.

What are the best aspects of the leisure industry?
Being a personal trainer/fitness manager – once you have done the long hard work to get there – is the best job you could possibly have. Being in a environment which is active and fun is really motivating but the fact that you can quite literally change peoples’ lives is priceless. Our job is to achieve peoples’ goals and you get to work with them each week. There is no better feeling than witnessing the person you are helping finally achieving his or her time/image/weight loss goal. You see directly how much you can affect lives.

“There is no better feeling than witnessing a person finally achieving their goals” and gone some way to maintaining those standards through its record of members’ continued professional development.” Julian Leybourne, CEO of ICON Training, agrees. “REPs is certainly up there as being an influencing factor and what this has done, almost as a by-product, has given us quality data on the skills gaps within our sector and there lies the challenge for the future. There is a desperate need for our sector to take a lead and decide what good qualifications look like.”

In other words, it is pretty clear that whatever your choice of training, it is paramount that you are aware of the increasing importance of REPs and the role it plays in the industry. Being REPs-accredited does mark you out as somebody

Where are you currently working?
I work at Sherwood Academy Sports Centre in Gedling, Nottingham. My official title is fitness consultant, but I also personal train there as well as run my own boxercise class.

What does your day-to-day role include?
My role includes greeting people as they come into the facility, providing inductions, personal training sessions and classes for members and also keeping the facilities in top condition by cleaning equipment and keeping everywhere secure.

What training courses did you undertake?
Initially when I left school I wanted to go into the media industry, so I went to college to study my A-Levels. I always had an interest in sport so I continued going to the gym six times a week. When I completed my A-Levels I then went to university, however, a couple of months into the course I decided the environment wasn’t for me and had to make the brave decision of leaving my course. By this time though, I had a job at my local gym which provided another career path for me. My passion for sport had always been there so I made plans to become a personal trainer. Following research, I planned to go and study with The Training Room at their centre in Nottingham. It seemed a quick and convenient route to getting me that all important PT qualification!

How useful was the course? Do you think it gave you a good grounding for a career in leisure?
My six weeks with The Training Room provided me with much valuable knowledge to take into the industry. My course provided me with practical and theoretical information that I now use in my job at my local gym which has enabled me to do so much more. The confidence I also gained whilst working with others on practical days in the course has meant that I am now running my own classes, something that I have wanted to achieve since working in the industry. My knowledge has allowed me to take that next step in my career, something that I will always value from the course content.

How easy was it to find a job in leisure?
Luckily, I was training at the gym where I now work, and because I gained rapport with the members by just training there, they were keen to give me the job! So, I would just say, train in gyms, talk to people in gyms about your passion for the industry and who knows where it can get you!

Any advice for school leavers looking to get into the industry?
I would say, get into the gyms, get to know how they work and see if you actually would thrive from the kind of environment. Doing your research would also be a massive pointer, you might feel that you would like to work in a big gym, but in fact turn out to be someone who prefers that interaction on a deeper scale, so would work well in a smaller gym. Not only that, but do your research on courses and look at what they offer. My course offered class qualifications too, which offered me no end of benefits! Just explore your choices and see what you prefer before diving into the industry and discovering you then don’t like it!
Josh Denney

Where are you currently working?
I work at the Sheffield Dragons Gym as a gym instructor/personal trainer.

What does your day-to-day role include?
Managing the gym side of the business; covering reception, covering for the manager when he isn’t there – in a sort of duty manager role – teaching classes, monitoring the gym to make sure everything is working ok. I do membership and stock sales, gym inductions, personal training and also create programmes for members.

What training course did you undertake?
I had a place on the Lifetime Fitness Academy, which was a three-week, pre-employment training course in Sheffield. My Dad – a former world champion boxer – teaches classes at the Dragon’s gym. My girlfriend’s aunty and uncle own it and I started there when they asked me to cover a few shifts for somebody and pretty soon I was full time. After the pre-employment course I started an apprenticeship.

How useful was that course?
The Lifetime Fitness Academy has given me a very good grounding; it’s allowed to me to advance in the leisure industry. It has definitely enabled me to get a better job than just cleaning and maintenance. It’s something I really enjoy. Plus on the course, the tutors explained exactly what we needed to learn to get on in the industry, and how to do it!

How easy was it to find a job?
It was quite easy – if I hadn’t got the job at the Dragons of course it would have been harder – but then the once I had completed my Level 2 Fitness Instructor Apprenticeship it made things much easier!

What attracted you to the leisure industry?
I have always been a sporting background – sport played a big role in my life, so when I was offered a chance of a job I took it and the course. It’s a lot about meeting people, listening to what they want and helping them to achieve their goals. There is nothing better than seeing a person achieve what they want and knowing that it was partially down to you.

Any advice for school leavers?
In my opinion, as good universities and colleges are, a degree doesn’t always help. A provider like Lifetime, offering apprenticeships, gives you an opportunity to get a qualification so you can get in to the industry much quicker. You don’t have to go away and study for it.

Is there anything you would do differently if given the chance?
Honestly probably not a lot. My Lifetime regional trainer and tutor were fantastic. I wasn’t the brightest kid at school so to have a tutor like that helped me so much and I really enjoyed it!

What are the best aspects of the leisure industry?
Interaction – with members – helping them to achieve their goals, but also I work in a gym where everyone is considered part of the family and everyone looks out for each other. The fitness team in particular is fantastic.

And the worst?
I suppose there is often quite a bit of cleaning to do and it is hard when someone cancels their membership. We are quite a tight-knit group so it is hard letting people leave.

"As good as universities and colleges are, a degree doesn’t always help"
Fitness sector bids for development fund

SkillsActive and ukactive have launched a survey to determine what employers want for training solutions, in order to guide bids for a government scheme to invest £340m in skills training and career development.

Applications for the Employer Ownership of Skills Pilot – overseen by the UK Commission for Employment and Skills (UKCES), Department for Business, Innovation and Skills and the Department for Education – close 28 March, and interest needs to be registered by 11 March.

The programme is open to employers of all sizes and sectors within England, but bids from groups of employers working together in their sector, supply chain or locality will be viewed favourably. SkillsActive and ukactive will collate feedback from the online survey and develop options or themes that employers can partner underneath in order to make bids.

CEO of ukactive David Stalker said “There are no rules to this fund, you are not constrained by a set of available qualifications or training programmes, rather as long as we can demonstrate that our suggested solutions will solve a skills gap and improve performance."

Premier launches barefoot training

Premier Training International, in collaboration with footwear manufacturer Vivobarefoot, is launching a barefoot running coaching course, developed by world-renowned expert Lee Saxby.

The one-day course will be held at Premier’s venues across the UK, starting at their London Academy on 23 March. Premier’s research and development manager Kesh Patel said: “Over the last decade, barefoot running has proven that it offers fantastic health and fitness benefits in terms of posture and technique.”

The health and fitness industry education provider is looking at the possibility of incorporating the course into its flagship Diploma in Fitness Instructing and Personal Training. Details: http://lei.sr?a=P9u8v

British Swimming reviews training centre network

British Swimming has axed Stockport’s Metro Swimming Club from its network of intensive training centres (ITC).

In a statement, the governing body said the decision was made following “thorough analysis” of the ITC network, forced on by a £3.7m reduction in UK Sport funding for swimming announced in December.

The funding cut – affecting the Rio 2016 Olympic cycle – was brought on by the disappointing performance by Team GB swimmers at the London 2012 Olympics.

The value of professional registers

IAN TAYLOR
is chief executive of SkillsActive

I have spoken with great enthusiasm over the past few months about what professional registers can help our industry to achieve, which is why I’m extremely pleased to say that the pilot phase of the Register of Aquatic Professionals is now fully live! I’d like to take this opportunity to invite employers and individuals to take part. The pilot will run for four months and following its conclusion there will be an evaluation of the system, allowing SkillsActive and our partners to make the final updates ready for a full launch.

It is free to join the pilot stage, with membership lasting for 12 months. Members of the pilot will also receive a membership welcome pack, benefits and discounts. To get involved, visit our new website www.aquaticregister.org. Next on our horizon is the Register of Playwork Professionals (RPS) which is another exciting challenge. The RPS will support employers, playworkers and the general public, who’ll have assurance that registered individuals hold the relevant professional qualifications required for the job they undertake.

For playworkers, membership will provide them with proof that their qualifications meet Ofsted’s regulation requirements, providing them with professional recognition. We also recently announced that we have been selected by Sport England to be their “National Partner for Workforce”. Working with Sport England we will be ensuring that NGBs have the right workforce to get more people participating in sport.

I’d also like to take the time to thank all our employer partners who worked with us in formulating a response to the Skills Minister Matthew Hancock’s announcement relating to the proposed introduction of “Traineeships”. Traineeships will act as a precursor to Apprenticeships, helping 16 to 24 year olds not in education or those struggling to find work.

We really have hit the ground running this year and I am determined to continue working effectively with our partners to keep this momentum going.
Better people performance means better results for your business.

INVERCLYDE LEISURE TRUST (IL)

Chief Executive

Inverclyde, Scotland

£73,946

Inverclyde Leisure Trust (IL) is a private limited company with charitable status. The Trust was formed in October 2001. Its purpose is to deliver the management and operation of Inverclyde Council’s sports, recreational and community facilities to the communities of Inverclyde.

Over the past 11 years we have experienced significant growth. IL now has 160 staff and a turnover of £3.5m.

The portfolio of facilities managed by IL include 3 swimming pools, 1 leisure complex including ice rink, 5 fitness gyms, 3 sports centres, indoor bowling centre, outdoor pitches, 3 town halls and 15 community facilities with attendances of over 1.2m per annum.

Our Chief Executive is retiring shortly and we are now looking for a suitably qualified individual with an appropriate mix of skills, experience and commitment to lead IL through the next stage of our development.

As our Chief Executive you will already be an inspirational leader, used to guiding and influencing a business. You will bring strategic, strong and clear leadership, defined by taking action, accepting responsibility, making decisions, advancing agendas, empowering and motivating our employees. You will continue to improve and develop our services over the coming decade, working closely with our partners and stakeholders.

An integral part of our Executive Management Team you will report directly to the Board of Directors through the Chair and will lead and inspire people in all our service areas.

Outcome focused and a strong team player, you will be comfortable leading and influencing in a wide range of different settings and most importantly be able to demonstrate real vision and passion for our business.

Work begins on Resort World

Construction has officially started on Birmingham’s £150m Resort World, with a groundbreaking ceremony attended by the trade and investment minister and representatives from owner and operator Genting Casinos. The leisure and entertainment attraction, due for completion in 2015, is projected to contribute £58m to the regional economy during the construction phase, and £32.8m annually when complete. At 538,000sq ft (49,982sq m), over seven storeys, it will be one of the UK’s largest integrated destination complexes and will include a designer outlet centre, 11-screen cinema, food and beverage, banqueting and conference centre, casino and a four star hotel and spa with up to 10 five star suites.

Resorts World Birmingham will be the first built in Europe with other destinations including Singapore, Manila, New York and Malaysia. Minister of state for trade and investment Lord Stephen Green said: “This is a fantastic vote in the future of the British economy and British businesses.” Details: http://lei.sr?a=79P80

Inland surfing facility for Isle of Wight

Plans to create a new inland surfing facility on the Isle of Wight have been unveiled by the team behind The Wave: Bristol.

Colliers International said that it is in discussions regarding building The Wave:IOW, which would bring together surfing, nature and education. At the centre of the plans is a lake in which water technology would generate waves of up to 1.6m high.

The experience is suited to both experienced and first time surfers and the lake would be surrounded by botanical and healing gardens. Following a market review carried out by Colliers International, the group were approached by Wightlink and the Isle of Wight Council about the possibility of creating a site on the island. Both organisations have provided some initial funding to help establish the viability of the scheme.

Co-founder of The Wave, Tobin Coles, said: “We were already planning to build another ‘Wave’ elsewhere in the UK and were keen to look at locations on the south coast.” Details: http://lei.sr?a=h8V9v
